Rabbi Gendler is leaving Phillips Academy after 18 years

By Alix Driscoll

Everett Gendler is a complex man. At Phillips Academy he taught a course called "Responses to the Holocaust and Non-Violence." He advised both the Muslim and Jewish student unions. At home, he raises most of the food for his family at his homestead in West Andover. He has collected thousands of books, so many they overflow into his barn. He's the pastor at Temple Emanuel in Lowell.

But that's not all. He served jail

This poet, Jazz, bops to a different beat

By Neil Fater

In many ways, she is a cliché: tortured, misunderstood, an artist. Come to her door for a scheduled interview and she yells at you – no, barks at you – to go away. Eventually, you're let in by an apologetic housemate.

Jazz – she goes only by this single name, like Madonna or Sting – is Andover's newest pop poet. And if she is misunderstood, it is because of her own actions. Wearing a neck collar during an interview, she answers no questions and at one point seems to fall asleep.

Jazz

Yet, she's so charming at times, it's awfully hard to hold a grudge. After all, she is just a dog.

Jazz is a 7-year-old German shepherd owned by author Jeanne Schinto. The dog's first published poem appears in the new book Unleashed: Poems by Writer's Dogs, out this month from Crown Publishers.

The book is a collection of mostly humorous, but occasionally more serious pieces written from the dog's point of view. Ms. Schinto taped Jazz's poem for National Public Radio Monday morning, June 12.

Deja vu on youth-center plan

By Don Staruk

Vowing to move quickly on a plan to construct a building for youth activities at Recreation Park, selectmen Monday night asked the town manager to immediately begin work on the proposal and to report back to them at their next meeting. Sound familiar? That's because they did the exact same thing 13½ months ago.

On May 9 of last year, the Andover Youth Council proposed the "Field of Dreams" youth center for Rec Park, and asked selectmen to help them build it.

"How do we proceed to go forward?" Bill Fahey, then the newly-hired youth services coordinator, asked selectmen at the time.

Selectmen were so impressed with the group's presentation they vowed not to delay action on the request and scheduled a special board meeting to pursue it.

"I think we should keep the momentum going," Selectman James Barenboim said at the time, directing Buzz Stapczynski, town manager, to help the Council with plans. "That's the fastest I've ever seen action taken" by this board, Mr. Barenboim said.

Ironically, it was Mr. Barenboim who

SHED finds a home

Shawsheen Extended Day and Kid's Club will be located in each elementary school next year

By Neil Fater

The Shawsheen Extended Day and Kid's Club before-school program finally has a home for next year. Actually, it has several.

After months of uncertainty about the program's future placement, SHED administrators Tuesday watched the School Committee vote in favor of allowing a SHED before-school program at each elementary school.

Dick Neal, superintendent, now will negotiate a contract with SHED.

The school department had been looking at the possibility of offering its own programs, but apparently has decided that would be too costly at this time.

"I think for us to initiate such a program (ourselves) would require us to have some sort of administrator at the building," said Mr. Neal. "As far as after-school programs

Genetics suspends study of cancer drug made here

By Don Staruk

Genetics Institute Inc. June 9 suspended a phase-2 clinical trial of a drug used to treat patients suffering from advanced kidney cancer after one patient died and a number of patients required hospitalization following administration of the drug. One patient died Friday, June 9, and a total of 10 patients have been hospitalized.

The experimental drug, recombinant human interleukin-twelve (rhIL-12), is manufactured at Genetics manufacturing plant on Burr Road, according to Gina Brazier, a spokesperson for the company.

"All of our manufacturing is in Andover," Ms. Brazier said last week.

Initial discovery work for the company's products is done in it Cambridge laboratory, but all the testing and production is done in Andover.

"We make both commercial-scale and clinical-scale products in Andover," Ms. Brazier said. "And IL-12 is in the clinical scale."

Genetics last month announced plans to step up production of rhIL-11, a drug that could reduce the need for transfusions in cancer patients, at the Andover plant following a successful phase-2 study of that drug. Those plans will not be affected by the halt to the rhIL-12 testing, Ms. Brazier said.

"I don't expect that it's going to have any long-term impact on the Andover manufacturing facility," she said.

The company notified the Food and Drug Administration of the study suspension and is conducting a complete investigation to determine the extent to which these events may have been caused by the drug.

"We are acting as quickly as possible to find out exactly what has occurred, and why," said Patrick Gage, chief operating officer. "Obviously, we are saddened by this death and we extend our deepest sympathy to the patient's family."

The phase-2 study was undertaken on the basis of phase-1 dosing studies of rhIL-12 in oncology and HIV as well as extensive preclinical testing, according to a press release from Genetics. In the phase-1 studies, rhIL-12 was well-tolerated over a broad range of biologically active doses. The phase-2 study employed a different dosing schedule and a dosage form different from those used in phase 1 studies.

Studies in non-human primates demonstrated equivalent responses of these two product formulations. The company is exploring whether the adverse events are related to the change in the dosing schedule or dosage form.

After the investigation and further consultation with the Food and Drug Administration, the company expects to conduct additional phase-1 dose-escalating studies with the new dosage form before resuming phase-2 trials.

Genetics Institute is a biopharmaceutical firm engaged in the discovery, development and commercialization of human pharmaceuticals through recombinant DNA and other technologies.

Andover teachers sign a three-year contract

By Neil Fater

Andover teachers received a fine going away present for the summer: a new three-year contract.

After working all but the final day of this year without a new contract, teacher representatives put pen to paper Tuesday night and made the contract official.

"I'm hoping this will be a genesis to a new type of bargaining that will go on here in Andover," said Tom Meyers, teachers union president.

The new pact is a three-year deal retroactive to September, 1994. For the first half of the school year that just ended, teachers received a 2-percent raise. They then received a 1-percent so we can bring them back to the building tomorrow," said Stephen Jankauskas, South teacher.

"It's in the mail," returned Ms. Dalton.

Ms. Dalton said before the meeting the contract had essentially been agreed on "weeks and weeks and weeks ago, in April, maybe even before Town Meeting."

The contract specifies that a new committee will be formed to address the time and learning issues mandated by the state. According to Ms. Dalton, there is no professional standards section in the contract yet, and this will be added later.

While teachers and committee members exchanged compliments, Mr. Jankauskas specifically recognized the work of Dick Muller and Lloyd Willey, committee members.

Bill Josephson, a committee supporter and two-time unsuccessful candidate for office, had a statement prepared for the event. He congratulated the committee and the teachers on their work and also particularly praised the work of Mr. Muller.

raise on top of that for the second half of this year.

Next school year, teachers will receive a similar 2-percent and then additional 1-percent raise. For the final year of the contract, from September, 1996 until Aug. 31, 1997, teachers were granted a 3.5 percent increase.

Street, said Sydney Bialo, SHED administrator.

The before-school program will cost $110 a month for five days a week, 7 a.m. to 8:45 a.m. The after-school program, from 2:45 p.m. until 6 p.m., will run parents $255 a month for all five days. SHED will provide its own busing to the after-school location.

Mr. Neal made his recommendation to the School Committee after reviewing SHED's pilot program, offered this year at Sanborn School. Approximately 20 to 25 youths took part in this program each day and, as a result, SHED contributed $4,000 to the schools.

School Committee listens to public-relations advice

By Neil Fater

With talk of a recall in the community, the School Committee looked to improve its image Thursday, June 15, by listening to Sean Gresh, a public relations consultant.

Mr. Gresh, an Elm Street resident who's also a professor and former reporter, called Susan Dalton on the phone last week to offer some advice. Ms. Dalton, committee chairwoman, asked him to speak to the entire committee after its goal-setting workshop.

"There's a lot of anger out there and I think you have to take that seriously," Mr.

Gresh told the committee. "(But) controversy can be terrific."

Mr. Gresh suggested the committee use controversy as an opportunity to ask questions of its detractors and to draw people into the process. "When there's a lot of controversy that really affects students who are affluent enough to go elsewhere," he said. "If people think things are really going to hell in a hand basket it can affect property values."

Mr. Gresh recommended the committee dump the three-minute timer, but consider putting 10:30 p.m. deadlines on its meetings. Instead of using a strict time limit to pare community input time, he suggested the committee should get a feeling for the consensus and then move along.

Other ideas? Promote a few big stories a year and set up photo opportunities with the press. "When you go to those forums where there's just 50 people, set up in a circle. Get out from under those desks," he said.

Mr. Gresh also suggested the committee delegate more assignments. "There are a lot of people out there I think would be willing to help," he said.

Prior to Mr. Gresh's address to the committee, Ms. Dalton said one of the committee's goals for next year should be to develop a way to better recognize school volunteers.

Other goals

Among other goals, Dick Neal, superintendent, said his "over-riding goal" is to create a five-year plan. Committee members said they want to see more long-term planning and multi-year goals.

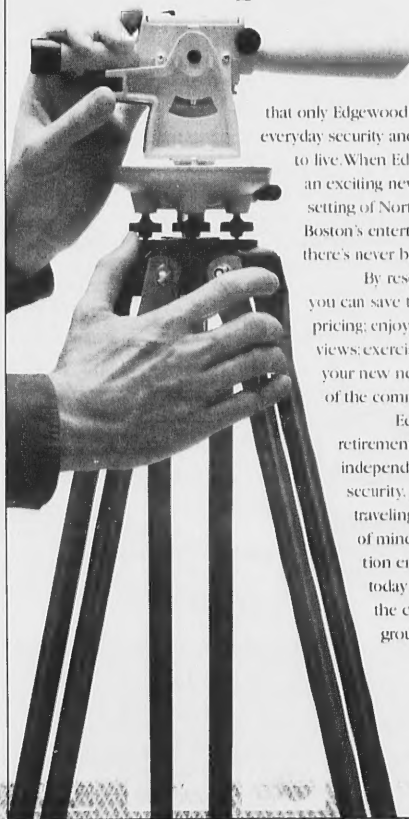

"This is my third year (on the committee). It seems to me I'm always starting over," said Dick

Time's up for the school board's timer

By Neil Fater

Lloyd Willey, School Committee member, accidentally set off the committee's much-publicized timer Tuesday night, and that may be the last time people will hear it.

On May 16, the committee instituted a three-minute-per-person limit on citizen input to cut down on the time devoted at recent meetings to the Sam Campbell issue. Chairwoman Susan Dalton brought a timer to that meeting.

However, Tuesday the committee discussed its meeting rules and members appeared to agree it's time to eliminate a strict each-person-can-only-speak-so-many-minutes rule.

"I think the idea is (for us) to try to do the listening," said Tina Girdwood, committee member. "I still feel (we must) create an environment where we're receptive to the public."

Mr. Willey had created a policy suggestion that included a 10-minute limit for each speaker and a 30-minute limit on the total time devoted to citizen input. After discussion, the committee appeared to favor trying to keep a 30-minute overall cut off, but did not want to place any specific limit on individuals.

The committee said it wants to limit citizen input so it can get through all the other items on its agenda.

"These are not debates," said Dick Muller, member. "That's one reason citizen input has to be limited, because debates happen."

Ms. Dalton noted that discussion regarding issues on the agenda will not be limited.

Ms. Girdwood remained against a written policy limiting discussion.

"I'm opposed to the 30-minute limitation," she said. "If we have a huge uproar it says something about what's gone on before the meeting."

School board writes to seniors about the Senior Center

The School Committee instructed the superintendent Tuesday to write a letter stating that using the Senior Center and administration building for classrooms is the most likely option for dealing with increased middle-school enrollment.

"Number one, no one believes that this building will ever be used for school space," said Ms. Dalton. "It's time for the school department to put its figures where its mouth is."

"We're talking about a 300-student increase over the next seven years," said Dick Neal, superintendent. "Short of double sessions we're not going to be able to handle that."

Smoking bylaw costly to some, but it's working

By Don Staruk

Nearly a year after the town's smoking bylaw went into effect, it seems to be working as intended, according to Everett Penney, Andover's health director. But some businesses have found it costly.

The bylaw bans smoking in restaurants and most public buildings. It was approved at Annual Town Meeting in 1994, and took effect in July of 1994, after approval by the attorney general.

Since then, the Board of Health has approved requests by four businesses to designate the bars in those establishments as separate facilities from the restaurants, and therefore not subject to the bylaw restriction on smoking.

Those establishments include Characters bar at the Andover Marriott;

Victories at the Tage Inn; the bar at the Ramada Hotel on Lowell Street; and the bar at the Ground Round restaurant on South Main Street. In addition, the comedy club at Grill 93 restaurant on River Road was granted a variance for certain hours when food is not being served.

To attain designation as a separate facility, the establishments had to meet certain criteria outlined in the bylaw, such as having four walls, doors and windows to prevent the exchange of air between the two, and separate heat, ventilation and air conditioning systems for each facility. A fifth request for that designation, from Eighteen Elm Street, was discussed at the Board of Health meeting last week, on Monday, June 12.

Alicia Parsons, managing partner of Eighteen Elm, has moved the dining rooms upstairs from the bar, installed doors and walls to separate the two facilities, and modified the HVAC system to separate the air from the bar from that in the dining rooms. The Board of Health is expected to approve the request by Eighteen Elm as soon as the work there is finished and inspected, which could be as soon as next week, according to Ms. Parsons.

Blasting is going smoothly

The blasting at Andover High School is 50 percent complete, according to Deputy Fire Chief Chuck Murnane, but will likely continue for about two more weeks and may continue until mid-July.

Contractors clearing ledge for the new High School driveway are blasting at 6 a.m. every weekday, "give or take a few minutes," the deputy said.

Blasting started a little more than a week ago. The vibrations are being measured and are coming in at less than 10 percent of the maximum allowed, Deputy Murnane said.

"Actually, it's going very well," he said.

Ron Wackowski in his new antiques store.

Andover Antiques opens; Open house tonight, 6-8

Andover Antiques opened June 1 in the former Andover Townsman location at 89 North Main St.

Owner Ron Wackowski, a longtime member of Andover's cultural and theatrical community, and his partner, Mike Vacarr, a watch and jewelry repair expert, are excited about bringing the antique co-operative concept to Andover.

An antique co-op differs from an antique shop in that it displays the antiques and collectibles from different dealers all under one roof. This set-up affords the customer the opportunity to see the best the dealers have to offer.

Some of the areas of interest currently represented by dealers at Andover Antiques are: furniture, Victoriana, Ephemera, clocks, china, folk art, kitchenware, silver, glassware, costume and fashion jewelry and accessories from the turn of the century through the '60s, antique books, first editions, children's books, Americana, artwork, rugs and wall hangings and custom jewelry work. In fact, Andover Antiques has been so well received that 22 additional dealers will open in the new section by mid-summer. The shop is open Monday through Sunday, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.; and Thursday until 8 p.m. It is closed Wednesdays. Other services include shipping, charge card services and computerized wish lists. The shop will hold an open house tonight, 6-8.

Richard J. Santagati

Andover resident Richard Santagati elected president of Merrimack College

The Rev. Michael J. Scanlon, O.S.A., S.T.D., the newly elected chairman of the Merrimack College board of trustees, announced Saturday, June 17, that Andover resident Richard J. Santagati has been elected fifth president of the college.

He replaces the Rev. John E. Deegan, O.S.A., the Provincial of the Augustinian Province of St. Thomas of Villanova and former president of the college. Rev. Deegan submitted a slate of candidates to the board, which included Mr. Santagati's name.

Mr. Santagati has served as Merrimack College's interim president for 16 months. He is the first layman to be elected president of the college.

The vote of the board of trustees was unanimous. The board noted the excellent performance of Mr. Santagati in leading the college as its interim president since February 1994, and emphasized the need for his continued strong leadership, both as the college approaches its 50th anniversary in 1997 and beyond.

The board also noted that Mr. Santagati is "an exemplary product of the Catholic and Augustinian tradition at Merrimack College."

NYNEX to move 600 employees here

By Don Staruk

NYNEX has opened a new sales and service office in West Andover that will employ up to 600 people when fully operational.

An open house was scheduled for today, Thursday, from 2-6 p.m., at the new facility at 20 Shattuck Road, off River Road.

The NYNEX Home Market Center is in space formerly leased by AT&T. NYNEX last fall signed a 10-year lease on the space with Prudential Insurance Corp. of America.

The center is already open with about 200 employees, according to Andrea Dudley, spokesperson for NYNEX. Ms. Dudley said last week that NYNEX is in the process of consolidating sales people and service representatives for the Lowell, Salem, Mass., and Malden areas into the Andover center.

"The consolidation is part of our effort to reduce cost and to streamline our internal processes that provide service to customers," Ms. Dudley said. "Ultimately, we'll have about 600 employees in the Shattuck Road facility."

Prudential pulled a building permit last year to do $3.8 million in renovations to the new site.

NYNEX also has a corporate data center at 15 Shattuck Road, a repair center at 1 Corporate Drive, and a central office that houses switching equipment in a building at 27 Elm St.

With the addition of 600 employees, NYNEX will be among the top 10 employers in Andover when the new center is fully staffed, according to Maryanne Whittingham of the Department of Community Development and Planning.

COMFORT

The winter was long and hard and our son Alex had a sore throat it seemed all through the season. At our last visit to the pediatrician, the doctor suggested a tonsillectomy. She made arrangements for the Day Surgery team at Lawrence General to do the procedure. Off we went on a bright and sunny Tuesday morning in early spring. The staff made Alex feel special. They understood that while this might be one of hundreds of tonsillectomies they'd do this year, it was the only one our son was going to have. And the fact that he'd be in and out in one day made it so much easier on him and on us.

RESPECT

The doctors and nurses explained everything to us. I was especially impressed with the way they spoke directly to Alex. Being treated that way really seemed to calm him. But what mattered most was the way they treated our family. They used a smile as well as they used their high-tech surgical equipment, and it sure worked for us.

Industrial plans unveiled for Champy property

By Joan Brown

To the groans of a rather unappreciative audience of neighbors and residents, engineers for owner Rose Champy presented the preliminary plans for industrial development on her property.

The property straddles the Andover-Lawrence line and borders Den Rock Park in Lawrence.

"The land is in many different zones and two different towns," said Jack Lougee, the engineer representing Ms. Champy, during the June 13 presentation to the Planning Board.

The plans show the 76-acre property divided into three large lots coming off a proposed cul-de-sac at the end of Stirling Street.

The most suitable for development - Lot 1 - is a 36-acre, industrially-zoned lot located almost entirely in Andover. Located on the Lawrence side, Lot 2, a nine-acre lot, is currently zoned as single-family residential. Though zoned for industrial use, Lot 3, an eight-acre lot in Andover, is almost entirely wetland area.

Two land-locked parcels and a 10-acre residential lot are also included in the plans for the property.

A seven-acre parcel on the Lawrence side is zoned for multi-family residential use, but because it's land-locked, will probably be considered as part of Lot 3. A second land-locked parcel - zoned as an open-space recreational area and bordering the Shaw-shen River - could ultimately become part of Den Rock Park, said Mr. Lougee.

The remaining 10-acre lot - in a residential zone and located off Stirling ty also includes extending Stirling Street by about 1,000 feet. A cul-de-sac at the end of the roadway would extend just over the town line into Lawrence.

Street - lies entirely in Andover. The site is largely wetlands, according to town planners.

Residents asked if any consideration was given to locating the entry road off Haverhill Street, Waverly Drive or the Doctor's Park area, instead of Stirling Street. "You'd get a whole lot less neighborhood opposition," said Laurie Swartz, of Sutherland Street.

The Stirling Street entrance is the point of least impact to wetlands, said Steve Colyer, planning director. "It makes perfect sense," he said of Ms. Swartz' proposal, "but this area's protected by state law." He also said that the only industrially-zoned frontage of the property is the land off Stirling Street.

During a review held earlier in the month, town officials questioned water and sewer adequacies; the roadway's town-line crossing; and whether Stirling Street could handle the traffic of an industrial development.

"These are concerns of mine and these are concerns of (public works director) Mr. McQuade," said Mr. Colyer. "If the plan ever went any further, that's when they'd have to be addressed."

Residents are also concerned about the traffic impact.

"How can you consider this?" asked Margaret O'Brien, of Sutherland Street. "This is the craziest, nuttiest... Stirling Street can't handle what it has now."

Allowed uses for Lot 3 currently include business offices; manufacturing and industrial use; commercial or trade schools; restaurants; motels and hotels; or scientific uses.

A 93,000 square-foot building with a 400-space parking lot would be close to the maximum build-out allowed on the lot, representatives for Ms. Champy said at April Town Meeting.

Joseph O'Brien, of Sutherland Street, had one more concern - rumors of a large, low-cost, Housing and Urban Development project planned for Lot 2.

Planners in both Andover and Lawrence said they have no record of any such proposal.

"Nothing has been filed and nobody had any pre ap (application) conference," said Lorene Comeau, Planning Board member, after speaking Tuesday with Antoinette Wallace, HUD's chief of Housing Division in Boston.

The Planning Board will make recommendations on the preliminary plan next Tuesday, 7:30 p.m. at town offices.

Recycling hotline makes recycling easier

Thanks to a donation from Hewlett-Packard, residents of Andover have recycling information at their fingertips. Residents can dial one number, 1-800-800-6881, to get answers to all their recycling questions 24 hours per day.

A grant from Hewlett-Packard Co. made Andover's message part of a non-profit, statewide recycling hotline dubbed "E-Call."

Citizens can dial the hotline, touch-tone their ZIP code and hear a voicemail message packed with the latest details on recycling in the town. The E-Call organization is recruiting businesses across the state to sponsor the recycling message. "At Hewlett-Packard, we recognize our responsibility to protect the environment," said Hewlett-Packard spokesman, Frank Orlandella.

FINANCIAL STRATEGIES

by Ronald R. Hill, CLU, ChFC

ACCELERATED BENEFITS

Terminally ill patients may find that their life insurance benefits could better be applied to making their final days more financially secure than going to beneficiaries after they die. This is especially true of those patients whose terminal illnesses have depleted life savings needed for medication and other health care expenses. To meet those financial demands, some insurance companies are offering accelerated benefits in conjunction with whole-life policies. Some include the option on term policies, as well. In either case, accelerated benefits may be made available to those who have a terminal illness or severe disability which requires home health care or nursing home care. Conditions vary on this innovative feature. If including this feature in your life insurance policy as a part of your overall financial plan sounds like a good idea to you, please give us a call. We'll help you decide if it's appropriate for your plan and your needs.

At BAYSTATE FINANCIAL SERVICES, we offer financial services in the areas of investments, pension and retirement, life insurance and estate planning, group benefits, and fee-based financial planning. If you have any questions or would like to schedule an appointment, please call us at 475-9212. Our office here in Andover is located at 10 Essex Street. We also have an office at 100 N. Washington Street in Boston (617) 523-4500. I am a Chartered Financial Consultant, and written and verbal references are available upon request.

West Middle School PAC

The West Middle School community has planted a flowering magnolia tree in front of the school as a way of keeping Sam Campbell's Southern charm and caring influence growing in the community. The tree was presented during an evening honoring the outgoing principal, in which teachers, students and parents showered Dr. Campbell with tributes and gifts.

"You came during a period of great upheaval to a rundown school building and a community suffering from low morale," Gloria Davis, one of the parent organizers of the event and next year's PAC vice president, told Dr. Campbell. "People walk into and out of our lives bearing gifts, if only we are aware enough to receive them. Your gift to West Middle was just what we needed, a caring, supportive climate. You have, by your own example, encouraged us to respect one another and to carry ourselves with dignity. Above all, you have reminded us that people come first."

Dr. Campbell told the audience that he and his wife, Helen, who shared the stage with him that evening, came to Andover for one last adventure - and they got it. Alluding to the support he

Magnolia planted for Dr. Campbell

By Neil Fater

West Middle School parents and students used four shovels to fill in the small hole surrounding the tree they planted Friday for Sam Campbell, departing principal. And they could have used more.

That's because students watching the planting all wanted a chance to place some dirt in the three-foot-by-three-foot hole surrounding their principal's tree. Dozens of students took turns with the shovels.

"We had parents and teachers and students all involved with digging this little hole," said Gloria Davis, a West Middle parent.

The tree, a young magnolia, is less than six feet tall right now, but parents said the pink-flowering tree is likely to grow more than 20 feet high.

"It's a magnolia. It's basically a Southern tree, so we chose it to remind us of Dr. Campbell... when he's gone we'll still have a little bit of the South here," said Peg Coleman, who will assume PAC presidential responsibilities from Lynn Willey next year.

The tree is planted directly in front of the school on the street side of the drive-up loop.

According to Dr. Campbell, West Middle's newest tree is not the first Sam sapling to be planted on a school's grounds. When Dr. Campbell retired from his previous job in Franklin County, Va., he planted a live Christmas tree there.

Dr. Campbell said his son, an avid environmentalist, talked his parents into buying a live tree for the home that year and Dr. Campbell needed to plant it somewhere before he moved to Andover. The principal chose to plant it on his middle school's grounds.

has received amid recent controversy, he said, "I have been blessed here in Andover. Some people can go 20 to 30 years without knowing the impact they have made. I've had glimpses of that, thanks to you all."

The students gave the Campbells a gift certificate to Backstreet... Again restaurant, and shared memories of Dr. Campbell with the audience. Jesse Gallagher told how Dr. Campbell went out of his way to help him improve his lagging Latin studies. Amy Cataldo remarked about how involved he has been with every student in the school. Stephen Arsenault remembered him picking up litter in the hall and helping track him down after school when "I wasn't where I was supposed to be..."

Members of the PAC presented a bulging scrapbook of memories and photos of his four years at West Middle School, including a page from each "Adviser/Advisee" class, with pictures and personalized notes from each student; a white rocking chair, from which to enjoy the view of the Blue Ridge mountains in his new Virginia home; and a heavy basket filled with New England treats and other gifts. However, the last present was actually a gift for themselves, the tree to keep a bit of Dr. Campbell's spirit in the school.

Another gift from Dr. Campbell to the school is the three-year-old tradition of West Fest, which funds many of the school's activities. Thanks to West Fest, this spring was culturally enriching and diverse for students. The whole school enjoyed the Handel and Haydn Society Vocal Quartet's Voices in History program, which sets music in its historical and sociological context and shows the interconnectedness of events. The Andona Society helped fund this program. In addition, the Andover Arts lottery helped fund an all-school multicultural program, Kaleidescope by Hemisphere Associates. The eighth grade enjoyed Karin Dobin's Art Quest program on Early American art. Seventh-graders saw the play Terazim, Children of the Holocaust by Anna Smulowitz, which they had read about earlier in the year. Performances and workshops by Cracker Barrel Entertainment enhanced the sixth-grade study of the Voyage of the Mimi. The PAC is already planning next fall's West Fest.

Educational plans, Dirt Cake sprinkled with Gummi worms highlight groundbreaking

By Neil Fater

Let them eat Dirt Cake. That was the directive at Sanborn School Monday morning, where students celebrated the ceremonial groundbreaking of Andover's third school-construction project. Sanborn's real construction begins at noon today, Thursday, when teachers leave for the summer.

According to Principal Jade Reitman, Dirt Cake ingredients include whipped cream and crushed Oreo cookies, with a Gummi worm added for effect.

Students Monday ate cake and wrote their first entries into journals they will keep during the construction project.

The journals are one tool Sanborn staff members will use to make the construction project educational.

Betty Marciano, a second-grade teacher, said teachers will be "turning the inconveniences of the building time into many unique learning situations."

For instance, art teachers will help students learn about the steps in designing the ideal school, and in using computer-assisted design programs, said Ms. Reitman. Students also will interview different workers involved with the building project and research their occupational fields. They will learn how glass and steel are made

The two second grades of Shawsheen School performed "The Tale of the Comet Which Lost its Tail" at the Collins Center last month. This original musical was created by Regina Stein and directed by Beth Shiff. The story was about Comet, the Cleanser of the Universe, who lost the streamers of his tail. Played by Joey Abisso, he visits his "customers" - the planets, moons and asteroids. With their help, Comet is able to locate all his streamers and be complete once again. He is shown above with Venus, played by Katie Nadworny. Directly behind them are the five Moonettes. The production was the culmination of the school's study of space, a theme integrated into all aspects of the curriculum this year. The children learned about the solar system through music and movement and presented their knowledge to the audience. The children realized how important it is to meet goals and work together, organizers said.

James Boumil narrated the play.

WHAT'S UP (THIS SUMMER)

Andover Youth Services offering summer activities

By Bill Fahey and Glenn Wilson
Andover Youth Services

Let's face it. You have no car and you don't want to hang out at home. There's basically nothing for you to do besides bugging your parents. Wrong! The Teen Corps program includes lots of activities, crafts, and sports to do and there are wicked cool trips every week! Check it out... or do chores around the house all summer.

The program runs from July 6 through Aug. 18. Times vary, but it'll be about two five-hour days and three eight-hour days each week. Sign up for a single week, or for the entire seven weeks. For more information, please contact the Youth Services office at 470-3800 Ext. 226.

What else is happening this summer?

Open gym

Don't sit at home watching boring week-day TV! Get out of the house and shoot some hoops or spike some volleyballs with your friends. Beginning July 6, West Middle School gym will be open Tuesdays, 8-10 p.m., for 12- to 15-year-olds and Thursdays, 8-10 p.m., for teens 14-19. Cost is $2 at the door.

Middle school dances

Music, food and fun for $5. What else are ya gonna do? Open to all town 7th- and 8th-graders. Dances will be at Old Town Hall, 7:30 p.m. on Thursdays: July 6, July 20 and Aug. 10. Cost is $5 at the door.

Red Sox games (ages 12-15)

The Sox rule this year and you know you wanna go see them in action. Get some friends together and watch Valentin, Mo, and Jose wreck their opponents in American League action. To reserve a spot for either game, please contact the AYS at least one week in advance. To confirm your reservation, payment must be at AYS by the reservation deadline.

Payments can be made at the Department of Community Services or the AYS office. $10 for ticket and transportation; the bus leaves from behind Doherty. Dates are: Tuesday, July 18, at 1:05 p.m. vs. Kansas City; deadline is July 10. Thursday, Aug. 8, at 7:05 p.m. vs. Cleveland; deadline is July 25.

Skate Night at Newburyport Ice Rink

We rented the whole rink so you could skate in the middle of the summer. For a cool alternative, grab your skates and come on this trip. Limited to middle-school students. The bus leaves Doherty at 6 p.m. Friday, July 28, and gets back around 10 p.m. Bring some extra money for ice cream after skating.

Introduction to sign language

This is a beginning sign-language class designed for those young people interested in the world of sign language. This class will emphasize development of conversation skills and will provide exposure to finger spelling and hundreds of signs, with various guests and special presentations. Don't miss this chance to learn this fascinating language! Dates and times to be announced.

"Really we're looking at every subject area," said Ms. Reitman. "We'll publish a biweekly newsletter that will have student input as well as parent information about the progress of the building."

Workers will build a library and music rooms over the summer, and those areas will be used as swing space for four classrooms next year, said Sharman Lappin, project manager.

Ms. Lappin said that space should be ready by October.

Five receive Andona scholarships

The Andona Society announced five winners of its annual scholarships this year: Andrew Ewalt, Malissa Guilmette, Kathleen Harris, Kristen Jenkins and Greg Peters.

Mr. Ewalt, the salutatorian of the Andover High graduates, was a member of the National Honor Society, captain of the Math Team and a member of Project Teamwork. He plans to attend Emory University this fall.

Ms. Guilmette was the salutatorian of her class at Greater Lawrence Technical School, president of the National Honor Society, a member of the softball team and a member of the recycling committee. She plans to attend Nichols College in the fall.

Ms. Harris graduated from Andover High School and was a member of the National Honor Society, CHAT - Community Health Team, a town-wide group that helps define health education standards - and the varsity field hockey team. She plans to attend Brown University.

Ms. Jenkins is captain of the cross-country team at Andover High School and is a member of the National Honor Society, Project Teamwork and GUTS - Growing Up and Taking a Stand Against Alcohol and Drugs - an alliance of drug- and alcohol-free students.

Mr. Peters graduated from Andover High, where he provided technical support for the TCI Cablevision high school programming. He plans to attend Northern Essex Community College.

Organizers said that Andona had another record-breaking year in its fundraising pursuits, raising more than $30,000. These funds are then distributed to benefit Andover youth programs.

Andona gave to numerous youth organizations this year, including: the Odyssey of the Mind championship teams, Andover/North Andover YMCA's Reach Out to Youth Campaign, numerous Andover High School sports teams, Windrush Farms Therapeutic Equestrian Program for physically-challenged youth, Department of Community Services summer concert program, Environmental Program Scholarships and afternoon sports programs for middle school students.

Organizers said,

"This small subset of the many things Andona has done to make a positive difference in Andover for over 40 years is possible due to the hard work of more than 100 members."

***

The following officers led the Andona Society this year: Diane Hender, president; Sondra Finegold, vice-president; Debbie Beaucaire, secretary; and Pam Gertie, treasurer.

WHO SHOULD USE AN "ARM"

Are you in a career path where your income is likely to rise considerably over the next few years? Are you planning to purchase a starter home, then buy a larger one a few years from now? If you answered "yes" to either of these questions, an adjustable rate mortgage (ARM) may be an attractive financing option for the purchase of your new home.

Typically ARMs start out at a lower interest rate than you could obtain on a thirty-year fixed loan, substantially increasing the amount of the mortgage for which you can qualify. The rates for later years can and usually do increase, although virtually all ARMs have limits on how high they can go. If you want to stretch your buying power, and if you are reasonably sure your income will expand to meet the possibility of higher payments, you might consider an ARM. Because ARMs usually save you money for at least the first few years of the loan, they are a good value for buyers who think they may be moving in a few years.

If you are considering a move, contact the professionals at Century 21 Carriage House. Call us at 475-1243, or stop by our office at 10 High Street.

CERTIFIED NURSE MIDWIFE TO JOIN WILLOWDALE MEDICAL

Judith Buss, CNM to provide OB/GYN care at North Andover Location

According to recent census data, the towns of Andover and North Andover have the fastest growing populations in Essex County. Judith Buss, a Certified Nurse Midwife (CNM) from the North Shore Birth Center at Beverly Hospital, and a long-time resident of the Merrimack Valley area, hopes to become a big part of that growth in the future. Starting in May, Judy will extend the maternity services of Beverly Hospital to women of the greater Andover region when she begins seeing OB/GYN patients at the North Andover offices of Willowdale Medical Center located in the Chestnut Green Office Park on Rte. 114.

Buss will join Dr. John Ragucci, a Board Certified Family Practice physician, who provides complete medical care for the entire family. She brings the long standing tradition and personal touch of midwifery care, backed by an experienced maternity staff and state-of-the-art facilities of Beverly Hospital (see right).

Well Traveled

"...it must be well over 1000" is the answer you get from Judy when you ask her how many babies she has delivered. Originally certified in her native England, she served in Africa from 1967 to 1973. Closer to home, she was a staff nurse and later a Nurse Manager in the maternity departments of Hale Hospital in Haverhill, and Lawrence General. For nearly 20 years, from 1973 to 1993, she has been a loyal friend and neighbor to the greater Merrimack Valley.

"I'm very excited about being back in the area. My husband was born and raised in North Andover and I made a lot of friends while working in Lawrence."

Uniquely Qualified

As a Certified Nurse Midwife, Judy is uniquely qualified to provide primary health care to women in the areas of obstetrics and gynecology. Like all CNM's she is a Registered Nurse (RN) who has received additional education and rigorous training in Midwifery and has completed the national certification process of the American College of Nurse-Midwives.

Special Delivery

While Midwifery was the preferred method of birth for over 100,000 women in 1994, (see related story) the role a midwife plays in a women's routine OB/GYN health is much larger.

Carefully monitoring a women's prenatal progress, a CNM consults regularly with an obstetrician from Beverly Hospital to assure a healthy mother and child. Many of these women choose to give birth in the cozy home-like environment that the Birth Center provides. However, national statistics show that 70% of births attended by midwives take place in a Hospital setting at the request of the mother. One woman who recently gave birth with a CNM described it this way: "The difference is that the Midwife who has attended to you with care through every step of your pregnancy is right there beside you the rest of the way to help, coach, encourage, and inform."

Complete Care

The services provided by Judy at Willowdale, neither begin nor end in the delivery room. She will be providing "well-woman gynecology" which covers everything from pre-conception counseling, diagnosis and treatment of infections and sexually transmitted diseases, menopause counseling, as well as routine gynecological examinations including pap smears, breast and pelvic examinations and mammography screenings.

According to the American College of Nurse-Midwives, a CNM's job is proactive. "With health education as a primary focus, a CNM's goals are to prevent problems and to assist women in developing and maintaining good health habits". Essentially they are in the business of keeping healthy women healthy.

Growing Together

While Dr. Ragucci's family practice continues to grow, providing pediatric, geriatric and adult care, he has listened to women who want the options of top notch OB/GYN care without having to go into the city. He is excited that having Judy working out of his office will enable those women to receive just that, excellent care in their own back yard.

"With Judy's experience and the great reputation of Beverly Hospital's maternity programs, women can finally get what they want in OB/GYN services. I am really looking forward to working with her."

WHO SHOULD USE AN "ARM"

Are you in a career path where your income is likely to rise considerably over the next few years? Are you planning to purchase a starter home, then buy a larger one a few years from now? If you answered "yes" to either of these questions, an adjustable rate mortgage (ARM) may be an attractive financing option for the purchase of your new home.

Typically ARMs start out at a lower interest rate than you could obtain on a thirty-year fixed loan, substantially increasing the amount of the mortgage for which you can qualify. The rates for later years can and usually do increase, although virtually all ARMs have limits on how high they can go. If you want to stretch your buying power, and if you are reasonably sure your income will expand to meet the possibility of higher payments, you might consider an ARM. Because ARMs usually save you money for at least the first few years of the loan, they are a good value for buyers who think they may be moving in a few years.

If you are considering a move, contact the professionals at Century 21 Carriage House. Call us at 475-1243, or stop by our office at 10 High Street.

CERTIFIED NURSE MIDWIFE TO JOIN WILLOWDALE MEDICAL

Judith Buss, CNM to provide OB/GYN care at North Andover Location

According to recent census data, the towns of Andover and North Andover have the fastest growing populations in Essex County. Judith Buss, a Certified Nurse Midwife (CNM) from the North Shore Birth Center at Beverly Hospital, and a long-time resident of the Merrimack Valley area, hopes to become a big part of that growth in the future. Starting in May, Judy will extend the maternity services of Beverly Hospital to women of the greater Andover region when she begins seeing OB/GYN patients at the North Andover offices of Willowdale Medical Center located in the Chestnut Green Office Park on Rte. 114.

Buss will join Dr. John Ragucci, a Board Certified Family Practice physician, who provides complete medical care for the entire family. She brings the long standing tradition and personal touch of midwifery care, backed by an experienced maternity staff and state-of-the-art facilities of Beverly Hospital (see right).

Well Traveled

"...it must be well over 1000" is the answer you get from Judy when you ask her how many babies she has delivered. Originally certified in her native England, she served in Africa from 1967 to 1973. Closer to home, she was a staff nurse and later a Nurse Manager in the maternity departments of Hale Hospital in Haverhill, and Lawrence General. For nearly 20 years, from 1973 to 1993, she has been a loyal friend and neighbor to the greater Merrimack Valley.

"I'm very excited about being back in the area. My husband was born and raised in North Andover and I made a lot of friends while working in Lawrence."

Uniquely Qualified

As a Certified Nurse Midwife, Judy is uniquely qualified to provide primary health care to women in the areas of obstetrics and gynecology. Like all CNM's she is a Registered Nurse (RN) who has received additional education and rigorous training in Midwifery and has completed the national certification process of the American College of Nurse-Midwives.

Special Delivery

While Midwifery was the preferred method of birth for over 100,000 women in 1994, (see related story) the role a midwife plays in a women's routine OB/GYN health is much larger.

Consider These Thoughts

by Garry A. Burke

NIGHT VISION

What is it about the night that makes people afraid to venture into darkened areas of their own familiar homes? The darkness seems to reduce all that we have previously known to mystery. And, it is out of this mystery that fear arises to battle, and usually win, over reason. If we were to open ourselves up to the real beauty of night, we would likely see it differently. As Robert Louis Stevenson once explained it, "Night is a dead monotonous period under a roof; but in the open world it passes lightly, with its stars and dews and perfumes, and the hours are marked by changes in the face of Nature. What seems a kind of temporal death to people choked between walls and curtains, is only a light and living slumber to the man who sleeps afire."

These days, more and more people are pre-planning funerals and making arrangements in advance. The reasons are simple and they make good sense. Once plans have been prearranged and the funding established, you will receive a set of personalized documents in an organized package. For more information about prearrangements, contact BURKE FUNERAL HOME at 475-5200. A non-sectarian home, we are happy to design and plan services to suit your religious beliefs or personal taste. We are located at 390 North Main Street.

Smoking bylaw expensive for some

Two other downtown bars, the Park Street Pub and Justin's, qualify as bars under the guidelines of the bylaw, and are not subject to its restrictions.

"They are bars as defined by the bylaw," Mr. Penney said.

Justin's had been a full-service restaurant prior to the bylaw being passed. It cut its restaurant menu to bar fare to avoid being subject to the bylaw.

"The beauty is the flexibility was built in to allow for these borderline cases," Mr. Penney said. "It allows the board" to protect the integrity of the bylaw without putting anybody out of business."

Compliance can be costly

But making the changes to comply with the bylaw and still having smoking can be costly, according to Ms. Parsons.

Renovations at Eighteen Elm included installing new walls and doors, work Ms. Parsons and a friend did themselves but which would have cost about $4,000. The modifications to the HVAC system will cost nearly $5,000 more. Ms. Parsons hopes the expense will be worth it.

"Our business was significantly affected by the nonsmoking," Ms. Parsons said.

She already had five non-smoking dining rooms, and only allowed smoking in the bar. So when the ban took effect, she didn't gain any non-smoking customers - she already had them. But she lost all her bar business.

"I probably lost 30 percent of my income," she said.

That included a large after work crowd and an after dinner crowd that came for entertainment Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights.

"All of them said, 'We love you but...'" Ms. Parsons said.

Her employees were extremely loyal. She did not have to lay anyone off, but didn't fill some vacancies that came up. Her bartender took to waiting tables to make up his lost income, she said.

Eighteen Elm has 210 seats, 52 of which are in the bar area. Ms. Parsons hopes the changes she has made to accommodate smokers will lure back the crowd she lost and fill those seats.

Poet, Jazz, bops to a different beat

Where does Jazz fit into Unleashed's pup-fiction mix?

"My dog is in the canine nervosa section," says Ms. Schinto.

Which leads us to Jazz's master work, "Stalker."

It seems Jazz is bothered by the constant threat of the mailman, who keeps throwing things through her family's front door. She particularly can't understand how he was able to find them so quickly after they moved to Andover.

I thought we were moving to

'My dog is in the canine nervosa section.'

Jeanne Schinto

get away from him. How did he find us? Tell me. What does he want? Jazz seeks to know.

"She's genuinely trying to understand what's going on in the human world," explains Ms. Schinto. "Barking makes perfect sense to her. She should bark at this mailman. We don't let him in. He rattles the door and some of the stuff he leaves us, most of the stuff, we throw right into the trash.

"But there are things she does which make no sense."

For instance, whenever a guest comes over, Jazz runs to devour her food and lap up her water.

I worked hard for these treats. You can't take them.

When her family leaves their Poor Street home, Jazz crawls down into a corner of the basement and stays there until they return.

"She feels more secure down there. It's kind of a wolf thing," says Ms. Schinto. "She likes to have a wall on her back so no one can sneak up on her."

Despite her fears, however, Jazz will let you pet her and will lie peacefully at your feet, apparently ready for a nap. But if you take a second to look down at her, one eye darts open and stares back at you.

"She's suspicious," says Ms. Schinto.

You never know when someone's going to turn. You never know who the mailman might be.

"You start over with Jazz every time," says the owner.

This is why Jazz barks when even the best of friends comes to the door.

"If you come tomorrow, it will happen again. It could happen 20, 30 times. She never deigns to recognize you," says Ms. Schinto. "It happens with anyone - my parents, my nephews."

And, of course, with that malevolent mailman.

Jazz earned $100 for her contribution to Unleashed, making a net profit for the year of $4. (Vet bills cost $96.)

Unleashed is available currently in book stores, such as Andover Books and Prints. Ms. Schinto and Jazz will appear in the garden at Andover Books and Prints, Saturday, July 22, 10 a.m., for a reading and book signing.

Ms. Schinto has written and edited several works, including her 1991 novel Children of Men. Her first full-length, non-fiction book, Huddle Fever: Living in the Immigrant City, will be out in September and is about Lawrence, Mass.

Ban to take effect in July

By Don Staruk

Leo Doherty may soon get a good night's sleep.

Gov. Weld Wednesday morning, June 21, signed a bill yesterday morning, Wednesday, banning the blowing of train whistles in Andover.

"It's now law," Buzz Stapczynski, town manager, said Wednesday at noon.

The bill, which was part of the Fiscal 1996 state budget approved by the governor Wednesday morning, actually takes effect July 1. The state then has 30 days to notify train operators of the change. But Mr. Doherty, of 11 Buxton Court, may sleep better even before the whistles stop.

"Oh, fantastic," Mr.

Doherty said when told of the governor's approval Wednesday afternoon. "I'm flabbergasted. I'm just so happy I don't have words."

Mr. Doherty led the fight for the ban for the last three years, taking petitions from residents to the selectmen and all the way to the Statehouse. The bill approved by the governor was filed by both Rep. Gary Coon, R-Andover, and Sen. John D. O'Brien Jr., D-Andover, and was supported by Rep. Edward LeLachur, D-Lowell. The bill was attached as an amendment to both the Senate and House versions of the budget that eventually went to the governor. The state Department of Public Utilities opposed the ban.

"We were sweating it out," Mr. Doherty said. "Right at the end we expected it to go either way."

Sen. O'Brien said Wednesday he was pleased with the approval of the ban. Rep. Coon is in Vietnam this week on legislative business. Both had lobbied the governor for passage of the amendment, according to Walter Radulski, Rep. Coon's legislative aide.

Andover residents have been seeking relief from the whistles since the fall of 1992 when a change in railroad policy resulted in train whistles being blown in town.

Petitions submitted through the DPU had little success, and at the December 1994 Special Town Meeting, residents voted to petition the Legislature to ban train whistles.

The dual bids submitted to the Legislature were modeled after a similar bill submitted by the town of Acton last year and approved by the governor last September.

Harding Street Bridge to close

The Harding Street Bridge will close Monday, June 26, during the day until mid-July, after which time it will close completely for nine months to a year. The bridge over the railroad tracks is being replaced.

It's a deja vu on the youth center plan

again this week made a proposal to rebuild an old recreation building at Rec Park, one that burned down in the '70s. He again asked Mr. Stapczynski to get involved, this time to check with town counsel and various town boards to make sure there is nothing to prevent the rebuilding of that structure. And he again asked Mr. Stapczynski to report back at the board's next meeting, which is scheduled for Monday, July 3.

Selectmen approved Mr. Barenboim's proposal to investigate his new proposal by a vote of 4-0-1, with board member Barry Finegold abstaining, saying he needed more information.

"We had a building there and we have the right to replace that building," Selectman Gerald Silverman said.

Many of the other original ideas for the center also resurfaced Monday, with Mr. Silverman suggesting that the building be built with private funds and donated labor and expertise.

Youth Council members and their advisers appeared understandably skeptical, questioning selectmen on who would be responsible for operating costs, maintenance and programming for the new site. The answers they received were less than definitive. Mr. Fahey said after the meeting that he appreciated the renewed enthusiasm on the part of board members, but that he would wait and see if what was proposed is even possible before taking a position on it.

Mr. Barenboim said the building would be a town recreation building and not specifically a youth center. He said the town would ultimately be responsible for the building, but left the details vague. Youths would be allowed to run programs there and the future operation of it would depend on how the first year's programming and maintenance were handled, he said.

One in the hand

Mr. Barenboim told Youth Council members they would be better off starting with something that is achievable — such as the recreation facility he was proposing for Rec Park — rather than holding off for a full-fledged youth center.

"We're not going to have four buildings at Rec Park called a youth center. People don't want that. We're not going to spend $3 million or $4 million for a youth center. People don't want that," Mr. Barenboim said. "But if the youth want to get something built before they're senior citizens," they might want to consider going with this proposal.

Constructing a 10,000 square-foot building roughly the size of the footprint of the former building at Rec Park might be reasonable, Mr. Barenboim said. Part of the building would house the youth services coordinator's office and youth services could host recreational programs there.

That plan would not need any legislative action because the use would remain recreational, and not be educational, Mr. Barenboim said. It would not involve a partnership with the Shawheen Extended Day Care program, as some previous plans did.

Seeking direction

The Youth Council went to selectmen Monday night seeking direction for what proposal board members would support. Selectman Bill Downs held up a Capital Improvement Program application form and told them that, as it is a capital planning project, the Council a year ago should have filled out such a form indicating the type and size of building they wanted, the projected cost, source of funding and operational burden for such a building, and many other details. He said it was the town manager's job to plan capital spending, and that asking the board to pick a site was a waste of time.

"It's not our job," Mr. Downs said.

Mr. Barenboim said he didn't think it was fair to expect the Youth Council to go back and start over because it didn't fill out a form. Mr. Stapczynski chimed in that the first thing he had the youths do a year ago was to fill out a CIP request, and that they did everything they were required to do to be put on the list for prioritizing their project. But selectmen at that time gave the kids a different set of rules and made their project a priority, Mr. Barenboim said.

"Sometimes I think people beat things to death because they don't want to see it happen," Mr. Barenboim said. It isn't that they want it to be different, "but they just don't want it to happen."

Peg Campbell, of the Department of Community Services, said the Youth Council has presented specific plans, including cost projections and other details, but that they keep getting shot down. Part of the problem is that the kids are trying to please so many people, Ms. Campbell said.

No town meeting vote

Mr. Downs said town meeting approval would be needed before any building could be constructed in Rec Park, but Mr. Barenboim disagreed.

No approval would be needed if all the money for construction and the first year's operational costs were from private sources, Mr. Barenboim said, and if the programs were all considered recreational use.

Selectman Larry Larsen supported Mr. Barenboim's proposal. He said there has been a lot of talk about the location for a youth center, but that a youth center would not be a building with four walls. He said the recreational aspects of youth services could be at Rec Park, but that other services, such as a drug counseling center, might be in a different location.

Dr. Larsen's and Mr. Silverman's support of the Rec Park site for a building is somewhat of a turnaround from last month, when both said they didn't think there was any sentiment for locating youths in Rec Park.

Rebuke

Mr. Finegold said he went to Rec Park on a recent Saturday and found only about three people there and a lot of beer cans and bottles. He said the site is totally underutilized. But he asked board members to take a vote on whether they want to be in the "youth services business," before they decided to move ahead with any plan.

Mr. Barenboim, in what came off almost as a reprimand, told Mr. Finegold that he was glad Mr. Finegold had been elected in March, but that three of the veteran board members had already voted favorably on that issue — that they favored pursuing a youth center — and that he saw no reason to vote again.

Senior Center plans rile School Committee

By Don Staruk

School Committee members oppose plans to expand the Senior Center in its current location, according to chairwoman Susan Dalton. Selectmen have rebuffed efforts by the School Committee to discuss the Senior Center issue with them, and are instead forging ahead with a plan that is shortsighted and will not satisfy either the seniors' or schools' needs, she said Tuesday.

Ms. Dalton said the Senior Center issue was on the agenda for this past Monday night's joint meeting with selectmen and the Finance Committee, but that it was taken off the agenda at the last minute.

She said that Jim Doherty, town moderator, went to the joint meeting Monday night to present his own proposal for a new Senior Center, but that he was "politely asked" before the meeting not to bring it up.

Mr. Doherty confirmed Tuesday that he was asked not to bring it up, but he wouldn't say who made the request.

Had they been allowed to discuss the Senior Center issue, Ms. Dalton said, the School Committee would have said members wanted to keep the east wing of the former East Junior High available for future school expansion, and that what was approved at Town Meeting will not meet the seniors' needs. Ms. Dalton also said the schools have "more than two" other options for seniors to consider, but wouldn't be more specific.

She said April Town Meeting directed the boards to discuss issues of mutual interest more openly, and she blamed selectmen for the fact that that hasn't happened.

"What I'm hearing from them is, 'We don't have to talk to you about this,'" Ms. Dalton said of selectmen.

Seniors pushed to move

Selectmen avoided the Senior Center issue during the joint meeting. Instead they had a one-hour presentation on the three school-construction projects, and spent the last half hour discussing the need for more talks on changing the policies used in setting the town's annual budget. Future meeting dates were set for that.

But during their regular meeting after the joint meeting, selectmen said April Town Meeting only gave seniors the right to expand on the first floor of the current building, and not to the second or third floors. Selectman James Barenboim also reiterated to Buzz Stapczynski, town manager, that he didn't want any more negotiations with the School Committee or anyone else regarding other options for building a new Senior Center, and that seniors should proceed with what was approved at Town Meeting.

"If the seniors don't like what Town Meeting voted, I'm sorry," Mr. Barenboim said.

But Ms. Dalton said the east wing is the last "accordion pleat" available to the schools for expansion of Doherty Middle School. And regardless of what a previous School Committee may have said about that building not being viable for conversion to modern classrooms, that is why the School Committee would like to retain it, she said.

"Who in 1980 had the crystal ball that determines what's going to happen in 1995 or 1996 or 1997 or 1998 or 1999," Ms. Dalton said. "The things that were said to close that building were said because you have to say something."

Selectman Gerald Silverman said Monday it was the state that said back around 1980 that the former East Junior High was unsuited for conversion to an updated school building. He said talk of the east wing ever going back to the schools is misleading people to keep the option of a separate building for a senior center alive.

Chairman Larry Larsen said this is not a senior issue but a town issue, and if there are proposals from the School Committee, "Let them come and we will listen." Otherwise it is a lead issue, Dr. Larsen said.

"I don't want to leave any door open for more alternatives because that's not what Town Meeting voted," Mr. Barenboim said. "I'm not personally open for any more options at this point." If there is another option, "it goes to Town Meeting next year."

He said he didn't want someone calling the town manager with another plan the next day. "You're very clear now?" he asked Mr. Stapczynski.

"Crystal clear," Mr. Stapczynski replied.

time with the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. in Albany, Ga.

Now, after 18 years as teacher and chaplain at Phillips Academy, Rabbi Gendler is leaving Andover Hill. He also has completed his position at the temple.

After celebrating the wedding of his older daughter, Tamar, on the family land in Great Barrington this summer, he and his wife, Mary, will leave in August for eight months in Asia. They plan a return to Dharamsala, India, and renewed friendships with the monks of Tibet led by the Dalai Lama. They will camp in the north of Vietnam and in Bali.

Upon his return, Rabbi Gendler has at least a dozen writing projects ahead. He plans to build a home in Great Barrington, in Western Massachusetts.

And Ms. Gendler, a trained psychologist and now a photographer, has been "shifting increasingly to the shutter," he says.

Rabbi Gendler lives the "Non Violence in Theory and Practice" course he taught at Phillips. He journeyed with Dr. King, and arrived for a respite in a Southern jail during the civil rights struggles of the early '60s.

"I led a group of 19 rabbis down to Birmingham, to the fire hoses in May 1963," after checking with Dr. King to see if he would welcome young Northern rabbis. The rabbi became well acquainted with Dr. King.

"We were jailed together in Albany, Georgia, in 1962."

At Phillips Academy, Rabbi Gendler's classes were real discussion sessions. Because he didn't have to tailor his four Phillips Academy religion and philosophy courses to the requirements of the Advanced Placement tests, "The classes could be genuine inquiries," he says.

Several years later, many of Rabbi Gendler's former students say their most engaging study and genuine inquiry was the rabbi's "Responses to the Holocaust" course.

His students analyzed the propaganda classic of the Nuremberg rallies, Triumph of the Will by Leni Riefenstahl, Hitler's filmmaker. They watched Charlie Chaplin's Great Dictator. They examined the issue from the point of view of the Treblinka death camp commandant. They read about the "little people of Germany," who found life for them was better under the dictator.

"Is the teacher sometimes an apologist for the Nazis?" more than one student has written in a course evaluation. Finally, Rabbi Gendler's students read Terrence DesPres' The Survivor, exploring the "fragility of life, but also the durability of life. Life really can assert itself over death," he says.

What amazes the rabbi is students have continued to sign up for this demanding course. Many plan several years in advance to take it.

"Introduction to Eastern Religions," another popular Phillips Academy course, blossomed from Rabbi Gendler's many months of travel and study in 1988.

"Islam came alive, Hinduism got quite a boost and Buddhism enjoyed a revived appreciation," he says.

That year, he and his wife journeyed to Nepal, Thailand, Dharamsala, Jordan, Sumatra, Istanbul and United Arab Emirates, to mention a few.

Colleagues say he has been a continual support to all the PA students who practice Eastern religions, some of whom are many time zones away from home while living at Phillips.

In 1971, the Gendlers settled at 227 Haggetts Pond Road. Rabbi Gendler joined Phillips in January 1977 for what was to be a six-month contract when "the school was beginning to experiment with an ecumenical chaplaincy," he says.

During the almost two decades he has particularly enjoyed the friendship of the Rev. Philip Zaeder, Phillips' Protestant chaplain and English teacher, whom he affectionately calls "Rebbe."

And now the rabbi, a wiry, soft-spoken, humanist, spiritual leader, complex man is opening new doors of experience.

"I turn 67 this summer. It deserves some respect. When we come back we will see how our energies are."

Things have changed for Temple Emanuel in 75 years

By Neil Fater

Seventy-five years ago, if you looked skyward in Temple Emanuel you'd see the door to a hayloft. Now, you can actually see the sky. Things sure have changed.

When Temple Emanuel first opened, for instance, many were surprised that men and woman were allowed to sit together. Some people also were offended because music was played, a good portion of the service was in English and the rabbi did not sport a beard.

"This was a change," said Thayer Warshaw, who had been a 5-year-old member of Temple Emanuel's first Sunday School. "The strictly Orthodox, those who remained Orthodox, were put out by the modern temple - and I'm putting this nicely."

Mr. Warshaw, the temple's unofficial historian, was one of many who celebrated Temple Emanuel's 75th anniversary during a Friday evening service June 16. Even though he has been a member of the congregation since the temple's beginning, he's not recognized by everyone. That's because Temple Emanuel's population has mushroomed from little more than the 27 families who signed the original incorporation papers to the 600 fam-lies that worship there today.

Beginnings

Temple Emanuel was originally located in Lawrence on the corner of Lowell and Milton streets. There, the founders secured land and bought a barn and a three-story mansion that had been used as an inn.

"The barn became the sanctuary and in the early days in the sanctuary it was possible to look up at the place where the Ark (to hold the sacred Torah) was kept and see the door to the hayloft," said Mr. Warshaw.

"They had services of different types to appeal to different constituencies and there were different dialects" spoken by the worshipers, said Mr. Warshaw. "It was a wonderful thing to listen to these people pray in their different tongues."

However, for many years the conservative-affiliated temple's membership remained low. Then after World War II, the temple became affiliated with the reform movement, people began to move to the area, and the membership began to grow.

A new temple was built near Lawrence's Tower Hill in 1955, and other facilities were used for Hebrew school and the high holy days. Orthodox Jews did not believe in driving a car to services, and thus wanted the temple to remain near their homes.

However, younger families were moving out of the city and commuting to services. According to long-time Temple Emanuel members, there was already talk that the congregation could move out of the city.

Then, when Rabbi Harry Roth arrived in 1962, proponents of such a move found a new leader.

"We already had in '62, a very, very small percentage of our membership in Andover. But more and more people were coming to Andover from Lawrence," said Rabbi Roth. "The handwriting was on the wall, I'm told, before the new temple was built in Lawrence."

Several issues prevented this from happening until the '70s. The cost of building a new temple in Andover was the largest issue, but many members also were used to having a temple in Lawrence.

"They were emotionally not ready and were still attached to Lawrence," said Jerome Russem, a former temple president, like his father and brother. "Some of the more farsighted people were looking to Andover."

"In addition, Andover did not have a very welcoming reputation," said Mr. Warshaw.

One of the temple's top priorities when it was founded was to have a cemetery, part of which extended into Andover, he said. It took 40 years and three Town Meetings before it finally happened.

Moving to Andover

Despite the financial and emotional concerns about moving to Andover, members said Rabbi Roth continued to encourage people with the phrase, "God will provide."

"God will provide," said Joel Label, who played a key role in the move, "but others were worried because they were writing the check."

Even after some members purchased about four acres of land near where the Andover Animal Hospital is today, the congregation remained in Lawrence.

"My concern in those days was financial. I kept telling people all we need is four walls and chairs," said Rabbi Roth. "It was taking us longer to cross the Merrimack than it took the Israelites to cross the Jordan." And there were already bridges over the Merrimack.

Then, one hot day in 1977, Mr. Label went out for a run and came back with an opportunity.

Rabbi Harry Roth places the temple's sacred scrolls from the old location in the new location in Andover in 1979.

During his jog, Mr. Label was approached by a real estate agent who had come across 11 acres of flat land. Mr. Label put down $100 to hold the property, but was faced with the daunting task of convincing a committee to pay $100,000 for the land.

"The psychology of talking to people about six figures was impossible," he said. "I thought of a ploy that I could use."

Mr. Label told the committee, "When you say, 'We don't want it, it's too much,' my ethical duty will be fulfilled and I'll buy it."

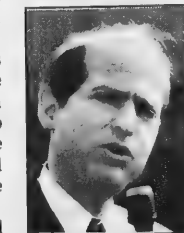

"As soon as I said that I would buy it, the whole tenor of the meeting changed. They had their own separate caucus," he said.

Temple Emanuel bought the land and hired an architect to build a true "house" of worship that would fit in with the surrounding community. On Thanksgiving weekend, 1979, a relay of worshippers carried the temple's sacred scrolls from the old location to the new location in Andover.

"As everyone was seated (for the Friday evening service) the scrolls were brought in by a runner, by one of the kids," said Rabbi Roth. Those sitting in the new sanctuary could look through the windows to their right and see the treeline or above and watch the twilight sky.

Growth continues

"As we celebrate our 75th, we really are looking to the future," Rabbi Robert Goldstein said Thursday. "I think that what has kept the temple strong is that we had leaders who were able to see what was needed to keep the congregation strong."

Rabbi Robert Goldstein

With each generation, the temple continues to grow and look toward expanding.

Rabbi Goldstein said that from 1979 until the present the Hebrew school has doubled in size and the number of families has grown from 350 to 600.

Having a temple in town has also served to attract more people to Andover, members say.

"Within the first two years we knew the building wasn't going to be big enough. It must have been the builders' fault because every year the building was shrinking," said Rabbi Roth. "Shortly after we moved, the congregation started to grow by leaps and bounds."

"I'm in my mid-70s, so the temple has always been a home from the very beginning," said Mr. Russem. "I was bar mitzvah there. We lived through the temple."

This Thanksgiving, 16 years after the move to Andover, Mr. Russem will watch the bar mitzvah of his brother's grandson, a fourth-generation Temple-Emanuel man. At that time, a bar mitzvah photo of Ben Samel, Mr. Russem's grandnephew, will go up on the temple wall and hang with the photos of those who came before him.

Senior Center plans

the Council on Aging, said Tuesday seniors are prepared to expand in the existing site on the first floor.

But she said she will stick with the deadline of July 1 for other options to be submitted. Ms. Dalton said that deadline is just "another form of negotiation."

"I don't think they're going straight forward at all," Ms. Dalton said.

Ms. Bresnahan said seniors would love to have access to the second floor of the current building, but that that is up to the landlord and the town, and if it is not available they will use what they can get.

Ms. Dalton said seniors have talked about wanting 33,000-square-feet of space, and they only have about 10,000 now. She doubts they could add 20,000 square feet and that anything less will not be what they want.

"We feel that our position on the east wing is justifiable on our part. We're not just trying to thwart the seniors," Ms. Dalton said.

Ms. Dalton said that when selectmen were talking about the seniors taking all or part of the second or third floors of the current building, which would have meant displacing school administrative offices, she had talked about going back to Town Meeting to try to rescind the approval for seniors to expand. Now, with talk of putting on additions that would destroy the symmetry and architectural integrity of the building, that option is again something that has to be discussed, she said.

"We have attempted to negotiate, and the message we are getting is that nothing we have to offer has any value," Ms. Dalton said, and selectmen are going ahead with something they know the School Committee is opposed to.

So there it is.

Ms. Dalton said selectmen won't talk to the School Committee. Ms. Bresnahan said the School Committee has never approached the Council on Aging. And selectmen don't want anybody talking to anybody else about the Senior Center.

Mr. Doherty said his plan would be to use approximately 40,000 square feet of land the town owns south of Doherty Middle School on Bartlett Street, where the small soccer practice field is, for a combination senior center/youth center. He suggested constructing roughly a 25,000-square-foot building, with seniors at one end, the youth center at the other, a multi-use function hall in the middle, and a bowling alley and a swimming pool downstairs. The seniors could build a day-care area on the second floor.

The seniors plan to raise $3 million for a center and the youths plan to raise up to $2 million, he said. Spend $4 million on the building and put the remainder aside for maintenance and upkeep, Mr. Doherty suggested. He said the School Committee controls the land, and he is "confident that they would turn it over."

EDITORIALS

Learn from controversy

Thanks to the School Committee and to Elm Street resident Sean Gresh. Mr. Gresh offered advice on communicating better to the School Committee last week. And the School Committee invited Mr. Gresh to speak on the subject.

"There's a lot of anger out there and I think you have to take that seriously," Mr. Gresh told the committee. "(But) controversy can be terrific."

People become angry when they feel shut off. They feel shut off when they aren't able to talk about what's bothering them. That makes them feel powerless. People have felt shut off by the School Committee about the Sam-Campbell issue, by the redistricting issue, and recently by the three-minute timer for citizen input at committee meetings.

It takes creativity by a committee to face scores of people who wish to speak during a meeting that includes an already crammed agenda. But there are ways of dealing with people who wish to speak without pushing the meeting past midnight. Ask people who wish to speak to find a spokesperson to represent them; ask people who feel they haven't had the chance to speak to write a one-page list of what's on their mind; ask a group that feels it hasn't been heard to meet with one School Committee member on a Wednesday; ask people to call the superintendent's office with problems and complaints; put out a suggestion box; and so on.

There are ways of making sure people are heard. Listening to Sean Gresh is a good step.

AHS logo

We like Karen Stone's letter on page 31, in which she says, "I'm not in favor of school mascots which depict other human beings in any form. There are a plethora of options based on inanimate objects, animals, or natural events (hurricanes, tornadoes, etc.) from which to choose..."

The School Committee is scheduled to make a decision about the High School's logo at its July 11 meeting. Make sure to express your opinion before that date.

Taking some risks after graduation

By Perry Colmore

Spencer Packard and Will Lowry are on a bike trip. A long one. Actually it's about a 70-day, 4,200-mile trip, from just south of Portland, Maine, to Washington state.

The two Andover High School graduates (1991) just got their degrees from the University of Vermont. They decided about three months ago they "wanted a close-up view of the country," in Spencer's words.

Recently, I wrote a column advising parents to relax about their sons and daughters who have just graduated from college. Lots of them don't have jobs and don't know what they want to do with the rest of their lives.

These two guys, who are best friends, don't know exactly what they want to do either. Neither of them are particularly big bikers. But they wanted to make sure they didn't rush into jobs before taking off a little time to play and see the country.

They left from Maine Thursday, June 15. They wanted to be able to say they rode from coast to coast. They'll fly back from the West Coast. They're using maps they ordered from Cyclosource magazine. The routes are secondary roads that are safer, according to Spencer.

The two are riding touring, 21-speed bikes with saddle bags on front and back. They're carrying a tent, a stove, sleeping bags, minimal cookware and about three sets of clothes.

They're riding the northern route, through New Hampshire, Vermont, New York, then through Ohio, Indiana and Illinois (the latter, said Spencer, is the "less exciting part of the trip"), then north through Wisconsin, following the Mississippi into Minnesota, North Dakota, Montana and into Canada. They're riding into Canada because that's where they'll pass across the Rocky Mountains ("That's hard work," said Spencer), then down into Glacier National Park, across Washington into Anacortes.

They expect to be home about

Aug. 20.

In the Rocky Mountains, they'll ride from 2,000 feet elevation to over 6,000 feet. "That's the hardest typography," said Spencer.

He said "watching for careless motorists" will be hard, too.

He and Will trained a month on bikes, not riding fast, but long, about four hours a trip. They planned to ride five to six hours a day on their trip. They said they'd send us news of how they're doing.

They expect to eat lots of pasta, stopping in grocery stores more often than restaurants because they're on about a $2,000 budget each, from saved money. Actually they didn't have all the money when they left, so they'll have to put some of the trip on charge cards.

At Andover High, Spencer played volleyball and Will was on the track and football teams. In college, Spencer majored in geography with minors in environmental science and geology; Will majored in business administration.

I asked Spencer how their parents feel about this trip. I could imagine worrying about their safety and about the two maxing up their credit cards, but I knew I'd let my kids go, too. You really can't say no to your adult child who just graduated from college, and I wouldn't want to in this case anyway.

"Our parents were very skeptical but supportive," said Spencer. "Will's parents were a little more skeptical."

A Sam Campbell fan

Editor, Townsmen:
Dear Dr. Campbell,

A year ago I knew you only from a handshake we shared at Scholar

Night and from a phone conversation we had about a very difficult problem one of my children was having. What a difference a year can make!

I consider myself lucky to have worked with you on the School Council this year, and I consider myself blessed to be able to call you my friend. You are everything that is good about West Middle School and you are the reason our children have succeeded there as students. There is a magic you possess that has touched us all and we are better people for having known you.

With all that you have been through this year, you have handled yourself with dignity and poise. You have been treated unfairly, dishonestly, and dealt a hand that you in no way deserved. Yet, you have been able to stand tall with the overwhelming support of your staff, students and parents. In your own peaceful way, you have been able to rise above the evil and shine brightly.

From the bottom of my heart, I apologize for not being able to right the wrong. We did the best we could but sometimes there just aren't happy endings.

Andover is a better town for having had you here, even though your stay was cut short. The people of this town admire and respect you, believe in everything you stand for, and would do anything to keep you here. Unfortunately, all we can do now is wish you the very best in your journey away from us.

As for me, I can proudly say that I have a deep affection for both you and Helen. I will miss you immensely. I want to thank you for all that you have done, not only for West Middle School, but for our community, and especially for our children. You are a dear man and my hope for you is that the sun shines on you every day of your life and the shadows of darkness hide away.

I love you Sam.

Against using human beings as AHS mascot

Editor, Townsmen:

After reading that the School Committee is soliciting feedback from former alumni of AHS regarding the mascot, I wanted to indicate my preferences.

I'm not in favor of school mascots which depict other human beings in any form. There are a plethora of options based on inanimate objects, animals, or natural events (hurricanes, tornadoes, etc.) from which to choose without resorting to any particular group of human beings.

Bancroft School enriched our lives

Editor, Townsmen:

This has been a school year plagued by controversy - where we should build, what we should build, where children should attend, why individuals have left, why others are hired, what voices should be heard, etc., etc.

Although more than half of the households in town do not have young children in the schools, so much of the news carried such adversarial and hostile tones that some might wonder what goes on in those classrooms during the day?

We can only tell you that at Bancroft, the dedication and effort of the administration and teaching staff extends to the students, parents, and the community as a whole. We want to thank them for the positive impact that is felt far beyond the school walls.

As school secretary, Helen Rogers manages the front desk in the main office like a one-person mission control. How she can juggle phones, type letters, answer questions from the bizarre to the mundane and still have a welcoming smile for every child that comes to her door is simply incredible. What a wonderful first impression she conveys to visitors.

The administrative responsibilities of a principal in a school of 650 students must be staggering, yet Debra Dunn finds the time to sit and truly listen to the thoughts and concerns of parents and students. We marvel at how many of these children she knows by name - how does she do that? While she rarely seems to have the luxury of an uninterrupted moment, she is visible, accessible, and never too busy to take the hand of an upset child or empathize with a concerned parent.

Then there is the staff, the front line who deals directly every day with our children. In fifth grade, our daughter had the pleasure of learning much more than curriculum from Sarah Wood, a dynamic first-year teacher who gave her students an excellent educational foundation for middle school.

She also created an environment of tolerance and acceptance in her classroom - these pre-adolescents were encouraged to discuss feelings and express concerns without criticism from their peers. Because Sarah so willingly and freely shared of herself and her own experiences, the children opened up knowing their teacher would never betray their confidences. Every one of them knows that Ms. Wood truly cares about them. They all learned from textbooks, but most learned much more important life lessons from this gifted teacher.

In second grade, our son worked with Elaine Driscoll Connolly. Mrs. Connolly has been teaching for several years and still approaches each new class with tremendous energy and contagious enthusiasm. Although the pilot literature program Elaine used this year must have required more work to prepare and present, the children in her class benefited greatly from her willingness to explore alternatives. She possesses a true talent for assessing strengths and recognizes each child as an individual while fostering a sense of group interdependence and responsibility. Mrs. Connolly stubbornly refuses to let any of her students "fall through the cracks" and is constantly searching for new ways to keep each student involved, focused, and challenged. Every "love" in her classroom knows unmistakably that there are limits and expectations but they are coupled with patience, warmth, and caring.

There are so many others that make Bancroft a special place. Barbara Noga's official title of elementary learning specialist does not begin to convey all that she is and does for the staff, children and parents at Bancroft.

She supports new staff members with resources, references and the occasional sympathetic ear. When seeking a professional perspective on various issues, we have always been able to go to Barbara for help in exploring our alternatives. She has always been there for our children and for us.

The list is endless. Has Dick Valle ever let a group of students go by him in the hall without speaking to them, sharing a joke or offering a compliment? Is there any end to the patience and persistence of Cliff Bourie as he encourages his students to stretch and expand their horizons?

How does Sally Bean continue to read stories enthusiastically when she is reading them for the fifth time to weary first- and second-graders late on a Friday afternoon? And how does Ms. Gorian inspire such adoration among second-grade boys at music every week?

Bancroft is not without problems and conflicts. There may be one or two on the staff who are there simply to fulfill the job requirements, but the vast majority give much more. With the stresses and demands placed on the school staff, we question how long they can maintain this quality and commitment. But for the present, we want to publicly thank you, Bancroft, for not only enriching the lives of our children but for also touching ours.

Save us from ecological disaster

Editor, Townsmen:

Corporate giant Ogden-Martin wants to burn 50 percent more trash at their Haverhill incinerator (up to 2,450 tons per day). They also propose to incinerate 250 tons per day of sewage sludge. This combination would make it the second largest of eight such facilities operating in Massachusetts. If such an increase is allowed at the Ward Hill site, our immediate area will be burning 40 percent of this state's trash, as well as plenty of waste from out-of-state.

Where is environmental justice when we need it?

All of us in the Lawrence/Haverhill area are already breathing a toxic soup of chemicals released into the air by our three trash incinerators (plus a major medical waste-burning facility).

No wonder so many of our people suffer from asthma, bronchitis and other respiratory ailments. A monumental ash dump containing more toxins rises 175 feet on the south bank of the Merrimack River. When it reaches its maximum allowable height, a new pile will be started. What is to prevent leaching of dangerous chemicals into the precious river we have worked so long to clean up?

Do we care about taking care of the valley we live in? Even now, all our ponds and rivers are poisoned with mercury enough to make many fish dangerous to eat. Locally, the major source of mercury pollution is trash incineration. The air we breathe continuously fails federal standards under the Clean Air Act. Burning of materials containing chlorine creates dioxin, the most harmful substance ever synthesized by humankind.

Meanwhile, the need for incineration is steadily decreasing as more and better markets open up for recycled materials. Incinerator operators cannot get enough trash locally to feed their hungry furnaces. They are forced to bring in refuse from many other states in order to be economically viable.

I know there are many talented and concerned individuals in our local area. There are many groups that are working enthusiastically to improve life in our communities. You, the reader, probably belong to at least one of these groups. Can you discuss the issue of incineration in your organization? Can you together draft a statement to oppose expansion of incineration at the Haverhill facility? Of the hundreds of local groups and individuals, which of you will take a stand before it is too late?

I encourage individual readers and organizations to send their statements to: LEAG, 4 Bicknell Terrace, Lawrence, Mass. 01841, or Haverhill Environmental League, 20 Montvale St., Bradford, Mass. 01835. Include a contact address and phone number. For further information or to help out, call 682-9159 or 689-0474. Do your part to save us from the ecological disaster that looms ever blacker on our collective horizon.

The Merrimack Valley Philharmonic Orchestra will present the opening concert of the American Guild of Organists' Regions I and II Convention Sunday, June 25, at 8 p.m. in Cochran Chapel on the Phillips Academy campus. The program for organ and orchestra will be under the baton of George Monseur, music director for the Merrimack Valley Philharmonic.

The concert will open with the Fanfare for the Common Man by Aaron Copland. Carolyn Skelton, academy organist, will perform a new edition of the recently discovered Concerto in D Major for Organ and Orchestra by Franz Joseph Haydn. This performing edition was put together by Paul Tegals of the University of Iowa, from six different manuscripts found in Austria, the Berlin library and the Czech Republic. This is the first time the music will be performed using strings, oboes, trumpets and timpani.

Michael Kleinschmidt, organist at The Parish of All Saints in Ashmont, will perform Poeme for Organ and Orchestra by the late French composer and organist Jeanne Demessieux. Ms. Demessieux, 4 feet 8 inches tall, was known for her inspiring technique - and the fact that she played the pedals in 5-inch spike heels.

Understanding Chiropractic

by Mark F. DeLorenzo, D.C.

RELIEVING MUSCLE TENSION

Much of the restriction in movement that patients experience as a result of pain is derived from the fact that muscles contract around any painful area as a means of protection. If the pain persists, the muscles may contract habitually to reduce circulation and allow the waste products from inflammation and normal muscle function to build up. Eventually, the contracted muscle may be reduced to a shortened state. In order to address muscle tension before it leads to complications, the chiropractor may use massage as an adjunct to manipulation to get muscles to relax. Not only is massage therapy helpful in reducing the muscle tension that arises in response to injury and illness, but it is useful in relaxing muscle tension created by stress.

Massage therapy and chiropractic go hand-in-hand to attain the goal of better health. At DeLORENZO CHIROPRACTIC GROUP, we are skilled in the treatment of muscles, ligaments, tendons, and connective tissues, and can help your body recover from the stresses of your lifestyle. For gentle, safe & effective massage therapy & chiropractic care, call 475-5042 to schedule an appointment. We're located at 15 Central Street.

P.S. Contracted muscles with poor circulation can, in time, form "trigger points," which are highly irritable spots that refer pain and other sensations to other points in the body.

AHS men's volleyball earns second best in state

By Rick Harrison

It was not the way Coach George Sullivan and the Andover High men's volleyball team wanted the season to end.

When you advance as far as the Golden Warriors did it's tough to be satisfied with anything less than a state championship.

"No one likes to be No. 2," said Sullivan. "It's hard to resign yourself to a defeat at this point. It's easier to handle if you finish fifth or sixth (in the tournament). We're disappointed right now. But when we have time to reflect we'll be proud of what we accomplished."

Sullivan's comments, not diminishing the glow of a best-ever 22-2 overall record, came immediately after last Friday night's 3-0 loss to undefeated defending champ New Bedford High in their State Tournament title match at the neutral Bentley College courts in Waltham.

The Whalers, who put the wraps on a second straight 24-0 campaign, defeated Andover 15-10, 15-10 and 15-9 in the best-of-5 final showdown.

The loss closed out a memorable season that saw Andover capture its third straight North Alliance title with a perfect 14-0 record, win its fifth league championship in seven years, complete a 19-1 regular season, post a single-season school-record 22 victories, and earn the milestone 100th win in the seven-year history of the sport at AHS.

En route to the State final against New Bedford, the Golden Warriors eliminated Boston Latin School (3-0), Lowell (3-1) and Latin Academy of Boston (3-1) in earlier tournament rounds.

Naturally the locals had envisioned a different scenario against the Whalers.

This is the fourth state title in men's volleyball for New Bedford, which had five starters back from the 1994 championship squad.

Andover is now 42-4 the last two years with two of the losses to New Bedford.

Warriors start slowly

"We were intimidated at the start of the match," said coach Sullivan. "New Bedford is the kind of team you can't make mistakes against. They were banging away with confidence, capitalizing on our errors, and we were playing ugly."

The Whalers jumped ahead 8-1 and 10-3 in the opening game.

"We hit the net four times, blocked the ball out of bounds three or four times, and did things we usually never do in a match," said coach Sullivan. "Mentally we just weren't there."

At the 10-3 juncture Sullivan called a timeout.

"We had a little butt-chewing session, and after that the kids started to play. They realized we could be competitive with New Bedford."

The Golden Warriors crept back into contention, a 7-4 run closing the gap to 14-10, before the Whalers' superior depth and talent began to make a decided difference.

"Their numbers are a big reason for their success," said coach Sullivan. "New Bedford is a huge school. They have plenty of kids to select from, and their volleyball players dedicate themselves to the sport all year."

"We (Sullivan and Art Iworsley, good friend and former assistant coach; he also coaches indoor and outdoor track) went to New Bedford High to scout their semifinals against Cambridge Rindge & Latin. The school has five gymnasiums, so you know the volleyball team isn't fighting for court space and practice time. And they also have several outdoor volleyball courts," noted coach Sullivan.

Scoring in bunches

Andover stayed with the Whalers in the second game, holding a one-point lead before New Bedford went on a 6-0 burst to close out the game.

"New Bedford can score points in bunches," said coach Sullivan. "You play them even for a while, and the next minute you're down by three or four points."

"They're bigger than we are, and towards the end of the match they wore us down with size and strength."

Midway through the final game the score was tied, but again the Whalers erupted with an 8-2 run to clinch the title.

Super Team All-Scholastic Tim Foley played another outstanding match, easily leading hustling but over-matched Andover in kills with 19.

"Tim contributed his usual excellent effort," said coach Sullivan. "But a few of the other players were caught standing around watching instead of getting involved."

Sean Croteau finished with six kills and Andy Shen added three.

New Bedford was successful in neutralizing big Golden Warrior guns Matt Gibson, Joe Hogarty and Aaryn Schmuhl, whose overall tournament play in the four matches was exceptional.

Gibson also played his final match hurt, being slowed by a foot injury.

"We were doing a lot of tipping but we couldn't get the kills," explained Sullivan.

"We only had three bad serves all night. But that's deceptive because we didn't serve well. Most of the time we were just trying to get the ball over the net. We were too tentative and didn't hit with our usual authority."

Nine senior graduates

Andover graduates nine seniors from the 1995 squad, including captains Foley and Croteau, along with Gibson, Schmuhl, Shen, Paul Krasnoo, Greg Litchfield, Abdul Ortiz and Eric Thompson. The 1996 nucleus will be formed by underclassmen Hogarty and Pat Hess. A return to health by senior-to-be Sean Rodriguez, who missed the season with a hip tendon injury, would also strengthen next year's team greatly.

There will be numerous spots open on the varsity roster next spring for players from the highly-successful 18-2 JV squad, which was led by Nick Wilson, Jeong An, Pat Sharkey, Jon Adams, Zach Smith, Zach Gray, Eric Bourassa and Shawn Connors.

"This is the best varsity team we've had in seven years," said coach Sullivan. "I'm very proud of them all. It was great to be a state finalist." This was Andover's first trip to the state title match in boys volleyball. The Golden Warriors reached the semifinals twice before and the quarterfinals twice. The overall won-lost record for seven years now reads 102-31.

Injury report

Coach Sullivan was scheduled for arthroscopic knee surgery last Monday. He tore ligaments in the knee during the basketball season last winter, but postponed the operation until now because he coaches the volleyball team without an assistant.

AHS track team aces championship at state decathlon

By Rick Harrison

Andover High won the team championship at the 27th annual State Track and Field Decathlon competition, while senior Jon Hall and sophomore Peter Ellis were fifth and ninth individually in a field of more than 70 competitors at the rain-soaked two-day event hosted by Masconomet Regional in Topsfield.

Veteran track coach Ernie Perry, who lives in Andover, was the meet director.

There were five Andover trackmen who participated, and the top three individual scores were used to determine the team total.

The Golden Warriors finished with 14,962 points, easily out-distancing second place Brockton High which had 13,211.

Acton-Boxboro and Tewksbury High rounded out the top four in a field of 11 full teams (three or more athletes).

Hall piled up 5,239 points en route to fifth place among 71 athletes from 26 schools.

In addition to Hall and Ellis, who finished ninth with 5,002 points, other Andover competitors were senior Matt Ely (14th place, 4,721 points), junior Eric DeMarco (19th place, 4,467 points) and sophomore Craig Hartwell (28th place, 3,903 points).

Higher scorers were Jamal Mercado of Salem High with 5,639 points, Adam Anton of Lowell 5,390, Tim Lyons of Wakefield 5,386 and Mike Torode of Tewksbury 5,371.

Hall, Ellis and Ely's points were used to compute Andover's team total.

"The best thing is that even if they took Jon Hall's score, and added Eric DeMarco's and Craig Hartwell points instead of Matt Ely's and Peter Ellis's, we still would have won the team title," said AHS assistant coach Art Iworsley.

The Decathlon is a 10-event test of versatility and endurance which measures skills in the 100- and 400-meter sprints, high jump, long jump, triple jump, hurdles, shot put, discus, javelin and 1,500 meter run. Following are the times and distances for the Andover participants:

YOUTH SOCCER

Girls under-12 soccer

Diadoras 1 - Avias 1

Though the Avias controlled most of the game, neither team scored until the fourth quarter.

After the Avias kicked a goal, the Diadoras came back with a pass from Amy Galluzzo to Jamie Huston who shot over the goalie with just seconds remaining in the game to tie the score.

BOW: Kellie Wallace, Sheena Patel and Maria DiChiappari (Diadoras).

Diadoras 2 - Adidas 4

The Adidas scored in a goal in each of the first two quarters.

Then Sara Nourse took advantage of teammate Amy Galluzzo's corner kick to score for the Diadoras in the third quarter.

Diadora Kellie Wallace later scored off a combination pass from Amy Galluzzo to Angelica Rotsart.

The Adidas scored two more times to win.

BOW: Molly Riemer and Tracy Pelletier (Diadoras).

Sambos 0 - Vans 4

Despite some offensive attacks, the Sambos were not able to score.

BOW: Jillian Mann, Deanna LaFond and Claudia Soo Hoo (Vans).

Sambos 0 - LA Gear 1

This was an evenly matched game with super ball handling by the Sambas, who were, however, unable to score.

LA Gear Rachel Harkins was able to connect on a goal in the fourth quarter off a pass from Jennifer Kane to put her team ahead.

BOW: Patricia DeLude, Jillian Mann and Shannon Dargan (Sambas); Megan Cuneo, Jennifer Kane and Jenny Piro (LA Gear).

LA Gear 4 - Reeboks 1

LA Gear started strong with a goal by Christine Smaglia. In the second quarter, LA Gear Jennifer Kane scored off a pass from Rachel Harkins.

Lindsay Hanna kept up the pace for the LA Gear with a goal in the third quarter. Then teammate Carolyn Purcell kicked the final goal for the LA Gear.

BOW: Laura Stone, Jenny Piro and Mary-Kate MacInnis (LA Gear).

Under-12 girls division

Division 1 Essex County championship semifinals

Andover 2 - Boxford 0

Andover Blaze dominated this match but went into the second half before they found the net.

The first goal came at seven minutes, from some textbook combination work.

Bridget Gomes was sent on an overlap by Tay Traub. Gomes crossed to Traub, who then found Kerri Nugent at the six. Nugent scored neatly.

About eight minutes later, Jen Anness took a defender into the corner and got off a cross to the six.

Kaitlyn Sarantos headed for the goal. Tight team defense shut down the Boxford attack.

Essex County championship final

Danvers 2 - Andover 1

This was a tight, physical match at the end of a very hot day. Both teams' tough defenses limited shots in the first half. Andover Blaze scored first late in the half when Bridget Gomes hit a rocket from 25 yards out into the top corner of the net.

In the middle of the second, one of Danvers' many skilled dribblers got away and found the net near the post.

Later, another dribbler got loose and drew a foul in the box.

Keeper Kerri Axelrod made a fine penalty kick save.

Late in the match, a direct kick set Danvers up at the 25-yard mark.

The kick hit the post and dropped to them for the put back, which skimmed the post into the net.

BOW: the players and coaches for a very successful 23-4-4 league and tournament year.

Andover 2 - Danvers 1

The Andover Attack earned a trip to the state Tournament of Champions with a come-from-behind win over archrival Danvers in the final two minutes at the Pingree School.

Down 1-0, James Ford buried a pass from Greg Booth into the back of the net to tie the score.

Then with 30 seconds left in regulation time, Jeff Rocca put in the game winner on another assist by Greg Booth.

Andover had dominated most of the game, but found themselves behind when the Stingers converted on an indirect kick early in the second half.

Defenders Vikas Goela, Geordi Milliotis, Emerson Sykes, Matt Fournier, Peter Burbank and Danny Bellacqua held the Stingers at bay.

Then midfielders Ford, Mark Baggeroer, Mike Morrissey, Justin Murray and Burbank built up the attack.

Jimmy Hale was unstoppable on right wing and Rocca and Joe Furey provided excellent play making from the center striker position.

The Andover Strikers will now advance to the state tournament at Fort Devens this weekend.

Legion baseball grabs season-opener, 3-2

By Rick Harrison

Tom Clarke scattered six hits over seven innings.

Alex Marshall's two-run triple in the bottom of the third proved to be the winning hit, as the Andover American Legion Post 8 baseball team nipped Lawrence Post 15 by a 3-2 score in its Essex County Zone 8-A opener last Sunday evening at Andover High.

The victory squared Andover's record at 1-1 after Boston Red Sox draftee Mike Spinelli handcuffed the locals in a season-opening 7-0 non-league loss to Revere.

Post 8, winner of five Zone titles in the last six years, returned to action last night with a makeup game against Marblehead at Seaside Park in Marblehead.

The game was originally scheduled for last week but was shifted because of the Marblehead High graduation.

Tonight, Andover is at Danvers for a 7 p.m. game at Twi Park and on Sunday Post 8 returns home to host Swampscott at Andover High (5 p.m.).

The tough early schedule continues next Monday night at Lowell Post 87 (8 p.m., Alumni Field) and Tuesday at Peabody (6 p.m., Emerson Park).

Swampscott, Lowell and Peabody all had high school teams that went deep into the recently-concluded Eastern Mass. Division 1 and 2 North Tournaments.

Andover 3 Lawrence 2

Big righthander Tom Clarke (1-0), picking up where he left off during a seven-win high school season, struck out four, walked three and escaped a seventh-inning jam en route to the complete-game win.

Post 8 grabbed a 1-0 lead in the first inning without benefit of a hit.

Leadoff batter Brian Tisbert walked, stole second, took third on Hugh Quattlebaum's infield out, and scored on Todd Harris' infield out.

Todd Harris, who has been accepted at Harvard College and recently returned from a trip to England, had missed the opening game against Revere, a non-league competition.

The advantage jumped to 3-0 in the third when Clarke singled, Quattlebaum drew a one-out walk and Marshall ripped his key two-run triple to right center field.

Lawrence chipped away with a run in the fourth.

Post 15 caused some anxious moments in the seventh.

Brad Mahoney (Cornell University) tripled and scored on an infield out, making it 3-2.

With two outs Clarke issued a walk and then advanced the tying run into scoring position with a wild pitch.

But he quickly settled down to get the final out on an infield grounder.

Lawrence pitcher Kevin Sexton took the tough loss despite tossing a route-going five hitter.

Clarke, who did little hitting in high school because of the DH rule, went 2-for-2.

Marshall tripled, Mark Langone singled and Chris Kearn laced a single.

Defensive standouts for Andover were catcher Matt Tricinis and center fielder Marshall. The loss left Lawrence at 2-2 overall.

Revere 7 Andover 0

Although he faced a somewhat depleted Post 8 team,

Spinelli was still awesome as he struck out 12, walked only two, and limited Andover to one hit.

Tom Gardner spoiled the no-hitter early by beating out an infield single in the top of the second inning at Revere High.

The game was halted after six innings because of darkness.

Post 8 started the contest minus several key players who had trouble finding Revere High School and arrived 45 minutes late.

Revere games are usually played at Beachmont Park.

By that time the host team had done its damage, capitalizing on five first-inning walks to score six runs.

Revere added its final tally in the second.

"Spinelli pitched a great game," said Andover coach Joe Iarrobino. "He was in total command."

Aaron Flanagan, the first of three Post 8 hurlers, took the loss.

Both Tom Clarke and Mark O'Sullivan, working two innings each in relief, pitched well.

Andover Flyers meets Monday at 5:30 p.m. at Doherty Middle School for races and field events. Youths ages 6 through high school are invited.

Your Dental HEALTH

by Richard D. Hopgood, D.M.D.

DRY MOUTH

While the oral condition known as "dry mouth" (xerostomia) can inflict itself upon people of all ages, it most commonly affects older adults as a consequence of having taken medications. In fact, more than 250 medications, including certain antihistamines, diuretics, tranquilizers, and high blood pressure medicines, carry the potential side effect of drying the mouth. The danger in all this rests with the fact that, unless the affected person is truly diligent about his or her oral hygiene effort, prolonged dry mouth can result in cavities and potential tooth loss due to decreased saliva levels. When saliva is present in sufficient amounts in the mouth, it acts as a natural plaque remover. If dry mouth is a problem, ask the dentist to recommend artificial saliva sprays or rinses.

Before xerostomia can be treated, it must be accurately diagnosed. Discuss "dry mouth" with your dentist. Professional care is always the best avenue to pursue when unusual symptoms occur. We're also here at 296 Lowell Street, Rt 133, with easy access off Rt 93, for gentle, family dentistry - routine maintenance care including cleanings, X-rays, fillings, cosmetic dentistry, etc. When you understand it, you can control it - that's why we hope you'll bring us your dental hygiene questions. Hours are Mon & Thur 10-8, Tues & Fri 8-6, & by appointment. PH: 475-2431.

P.S. Those who experience dry mouth should visit the dentist every three months for professional fluoride treatments.

Daher's Shoe is located at Old Andover Village on Main Street.

Daher's 4,000 pairs of shoes on sale during sidewalk bazaar

Daher's and Daher's for Kids celebrates one of its biggest events this Friday and Saturday on Main Street.

It's the annual Sidewalk Bazaar Days and Daher's will have thousands of pairs of great shoes, sneakers and sandals on 25 tables packed with savings of up to 50 percent and more during this event.

Due to the magnitude of the event, it will be held in front of the adult store in Olde Andover Village. This is a once-a-year event that is not to be missed. The sale starts at 9 a.m. on Friday and is continued through Saturday until 5 p.m.

Customers will be able to choose from hundreds of pairs of men's dress and casual shoes as well as sneakers. Women will be enticed by hundreds of sandals, sneakers and shoes.

As always, the kids' selection will be incredible. Besides footwear, there will be a terrific selection of accessories and women's clothing from which to choose.

Daher's and Daher's for Kids will also celebrate Bazaar Days inside each store. Special buys and clearance items will be offered throughout the stores.

For those hot summer days, Daher's has increased their sandal selection tremendously from prior years. The adult selection includes sandals from Teva, Birkenstock, Ecco, Clark, Nike, Aerosole and many more. ## Enjoy Sidewalk Bazaar Days

by Alix Driscoll

Sidewalk Bazaar Days, this Friday and Saturday, are a giant family reunion for the town of Andover.

These two gala days of sidewalk sales, sponsored by the Andover Center Association merchants, are complemented by such family entertainment as square dancing, dance and aerobic demonstrations, hayrides, a jazz band performances and a visit to the Furry Friends petting zoo. The Andover Selectmen cook a pancake breakfast in front of the Old Town Hall Saturday morning, from 8-11.

These special sales days are a long standing tradition in town, and grow bigger every year. The merchants prepare for months and townspeople meet people they haven't seen for months.

Main Street is blocked off from Elm Square to Punchard Avenue, but Chestnut Street is open to the Gulf Station.

Special event on Friday

Friday evening the Mill City Jazz Band will play from 6 to 8 p.m.

Exciting events on Saturday

From 8 to 11 a.m., members of Andover's Board of Selectmen cook their famous pancakes, at Old Town Hall. Other Saturday features are hayrides from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m., a concert by Black Derby Jazz Band from 1:30-3:30 p.m. and the Bellowphone Show from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m.

In addition, there are opportunities to meet Lion King, Goofy and Mickey Mouse. For fitness and dance devotees, there are demonstrations of aerobic exercises and classical dance by members of Silverado Athletic Club and Andover School of Ballet.

The Furry Friends traveling zoo

A special feature of Sidewalk Bazaar Days is a chance to visit the Furry Friends, a traveling and petting zoo, in the Main Street parking lot, next to 89 Main Street. On display are the following animals: African lions and cubs, Siberian tiger, black leopard, Hamadryas baboon, African pygmy hedgehogs, ruffled lemur, tortoises, alligators, Burmese pythons, prairie dogs, deer, sheep and goats. The zoo is open for visitors during Sidewalk Bazaar hours. There is a small charge.

Andover clubs and non-profit groups

Several non-profit clubs and civic organizations who set up booths for Bazaar Days include: Andover Center Association, Andover Board of Selectmen, Andover Police, Creative Living, Holy Family Hospital, Andover Department of Community Services, Andover Society, Order of the Eastern Star, Amnesty International, Girl Scout Troop 50, South Church - Board of Women's Ministries, Knights of Columbus, Boy Scout Troop 78, Andover Community Theatre, Shawshen Village Woman's Club, Andover Council on Aging, Town Facilities Coordinator, World Learning and Healthy Communities Tobacco Awareness Program. All of these town organizations are inviting townspeople to visit their booths.

Make the most of a home's marketability

Selling your home?

Historically, spring and summer are the most popular months for putting a home on the market. It is also the time when you can make your home look its best.

Here are some tips from professionals for making that all-important first impression on potential buyers.

Be sure the front door is freshly painted. It is one of the first things a buyer will see and it says a lot about how you've cared for your home.

You can also add a decorative wreath to the door, or put a new doormat on the porch.

And don't forget the other doors. The garage door, for instance, is the largest door on a home and provides the most curb appeal. And remember, most people who have garages enter their homes that way.

"For most homeowners, updating the garage creates an inviting look to a home that won't require spending a great deal of money," says Dave Mielke, vice president of marketing at Wayne-Dalton, one of the nation's leading manufacturers of garage doors. "A new garage door can do so much for a home's appearance. That's why so many choose to update the garage door."

Other recommendations by real estate companies to ready a home for sale include the following:

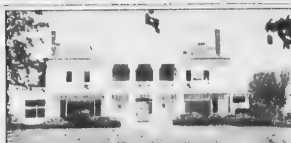

- Organize cluttered closets to make them look larger.
  - Clean the oven and stove thoroughly.
  - Clean tired, dull carpeting.
  - Wash all the windows.
  - Air out the home. You are the last person to notice a peculiar odor there.
  - Replace the doorbell if it is broken.
  - Wash the mailbox.
  - Plant a few flats of flowers in flower beds and arrange fresh blooming plants in flowerpots on the porch.
- Taking a few, simple steps like these will help you sell your home more quickly.

Be sure the front door is freshly painted. It is one of the first things a buyer will see and it says a lot about how you've cared for your home.

design of all that is exterior to a building, including the contour of the land, trees, courtyards, ponds, walks and stone walls. It must include site design that pays heed to the sensitive nature of wetlands.

Mr. Crowe, a graduate of a five-year undergraduate landscape degree program with a master's degree in landscape architecture, assists Andover-bound corporations through the often lengthy Conservation Commission permitting process that protects town's watersheds, ponds and other wetlands. The principal of John G. Crowe Associates, a Belmont firm with both landscape architects and civil engineers, Mr. Crowe is a regular at Andover ConsCom meetings.

This spring he has been representing Woodland Park, on Federal Drive, an industrial development about to get a new neighbor on lot 2, Eisai Merrimack Valley. EMV obtained the permits from the ConsCom on June 6 as part of the process to allow the building of a $34 million plant to produce chemical pharmaceuticals.

On the site are two ponds he designed to contain runoff and to cleanse the water before it enters the watershed. Young birches and wild blackberry vines encircled them. A male bullfrog has taken up residence.

For Vicor Corporation, down the road at 400 Federal Drive, Mr. Crowe designed a natural-looking woodland pond with a water lily-bounded fountain.

He says the process from site design to finish work takes several years. He applied for site permits from the town for the Hewlett-Packard Medical facility in 1991, the building was occupied in 1994 and he is just now completing the "punch list" of final details.

Landscape architects designed a crabapple orchard

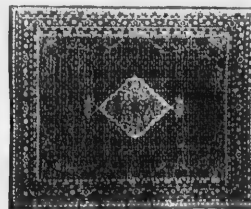

As part of the finish site work on the first Eisai plant, on the west side of Route 93, the Halvorson Company of Boston landscape architects executed a symmetrically planned crabapple orchard with welcoming sitting areas under the trees. An undulating wall of stones that is carefully crafted, not piled up New England-style, encircles the parking area. Different textures of paving stones delineate an entrance area, a meeting spot and a guest parking site.

spirit, nature provides the psychological balm available nowhere else," said Francis Law Olmstead. One of America's first planners of recreational land, he came to Andover to study engineering with Frederick Barton before designing the "emerald necklaces" of parklands around Boston and New York, beginning in 1863. He emphasized connecting parcels of space open to the public in his park designs.

Part of the 1980s agreement between Woodland Park and the ConsCom gave 30 acres of land on the east side of Federal Drive to the town. Now that one-mile-long parcel will connect River Road with 31 acres of land that will be deeded to the town under the protection of the ConsCom by the developer of 54-lot Somerset Village cluster subdivision off Chandler Road and North Street.

It is a goal of both the ConsCom and Planning Board to protect and connect parcels of open space in emerald chains of passive recreation areas throughout the town. The Planning Board "practically mandates" there be links between town-owned open spaces when a developer plans a cluster development, said Steve Colyer, Andover's planning director.

He says the paved bike path and unpaved old farm road that site designers have planned for the proposed Somerset site will allow folks to travel from that subdivision to the Chandler fields on Ledge Road by foot or bike.

Neighbors of the proposed development off Prides Circle bordering on the western border of Phillips Academy land and environmentalists in town are hoping the site development plans by landscape architects will include walking trails to tie

Ms. Morse, of Julie Morse Company, 9 Bartlett St., who planned and executed the trellis and several cameo gardens on the property, earned an engineering degree at Wentworth Institute and worked for 10 years doing project management. She brings a sense of scale and understanding of construction techniques to her gardens.

together the AVIS lands in the environs with other private and public preserved areas near Rec Park and the center of town.

Designing on a smaller set

Designing on a smaller scale with smaller props are landscape designers who bring considerable expertise to the gardens and recreation areas they create for Andover homeowners.

Several local residents who have been planning, constructing and fine-tuning gardens throughout town learned their craft through Andover Garden Club courses and experimentation with their own plantings.

Julie Morse, on the other hand, brings a background in the construction industry and her engineering degree from Wentworth Institute in Boston to the design and construction process for the distinctive garden she has created for clients.

For John and Linda Riehl of Salem Street, she designed "a cottage garden" in the front of the home. Ms. Riehl hails from Scotland, where land is used very compactly. Within the 60 feet by 30 feet space are low bushes, a path, soft-grey colored boulders rounded by the centuries and perennials graced by a flowering Japanese maple.

The design process

"It's like poetry. It comes from the soul (of the homeowners), says Ms. Morse.

"It's helping to express what they have inside their heart. It's design rather than a collection."

Ms. Morse encourages garden-owners to work alongside her. Ms. Riehl labored with her to construct the planting beds and haul lichen-encrusted stones for front-yard gardens.

For the owner of the historic colonial at 49 Salem St. Ms. Morse constructed a honeysuckle-entwined trellis arbor above a brick walkway connecting the barn and workshop.

At the request of an older resident of Bancroft Road, Ms. Morse moved well-established perennial plants from the back and reconstructed the front yard so the garden would be easier to maintain for the homeowner. She says the entire neighborhood delights in the seasonal displays of beauty.

Ms. Morse works with her husband, Tom Cone, and adult children, Sarah and Rachel, who help in all phases of landscape design and execution. For those who like to do the construction themselves, the Julie Morse Company will act as a consultant and design site plans.

'An encyclopedia of display'

Within the environs of her home at 18 Hidden Field Drive, Ms. Morse is growing "an encyclopedia of display," she says, describing several small gardens constructed to flourish in shade, sun or part shade. She grows more than 60 varieties of specimen hostas, which range from a six-inch plant to what she hopes will become a nine-foot wonder.

Historic gardens require maintenance

Tina Girdwood discovered an unmet need when she changed the focus of her business from designing and installing gardens for three years, to maintaining several historic gardens in town. She is currently fine-tuning Georgia Stanley's many cameo gardens her father planted 60 years ago when he purchased the Blunt-Stanley House. Ms. Stanley says the distinctive brick-red home on Porter Road was the caretaker's house for the Cromie estate on Abbot Street.

The original home circa 1700 was updated in the federal style circa 1800, says Barbara Thibault, director of the Andover Historical Society.

This summer, Ms. Girdwood is planting the small vegetable garden guarded by antique whirligigs for Ms. Stanley. She is cultivating the stand of goldenglow, an 1800-era plant brought from Lowell Street to the sunken garden in what was the foundation of an ancient shed.

Boasting a terra cotta animal-filled front fenced grassy nook, a perennial bed winding around a low stone wall to the west and bucolic meadowlands dipping into AVIS-protected woodlands, Ms. Stanley's homestead is one of the masterpieces designed and carefully maintained by landscape professionals on Andover's stage set.

DEP approves alternative sewage disposal technologies

Five new septic system technologies approved by the Massachusetts Department of Environmental Protection have resulted in dramatically increased flexibility for homeowners whose septic systems have failed. The new technologies also offer a wide range of options for new construction, while improving drinking water safety.

The approval of the systems, which join two others previously certified by DEP, cleared the way for implementation on March 31 of new Title 5 regulations, which include provisions that will ease the burden on homeowners faced with failing systems, and allow much greater local control of options for septic system use.

"Improving local control and creating more local options, especially for hardship situations, is a change which will take some getting used to, but it is what people told us they most wanted in new septic system regulations," said Environmental Affairs Secretary Trudy Cox. "Our new regulations introduce innovative technologies which will help homeowners solve problems in the most cost-effective way possible, while improving water quality protection."

"We've worked very hard to make sure that homeowners have as many options as possible available to them in situations where a traditional septic system isn't practical," added DEP Acting Commissioner Tom Powers. "And we've given local boards of health the authority and flexibility to work with their citizens to address individual problems in the best way they see fit."

The alternative technologies currently approved for general use are Bioclere, Eljen In-Drain, Infiltrator Chamber System, Orenco, Ruck, recirculating sand filters, and composting toilets. These can be used in both new construction and for upgrades, without site-specific approval from DEP.

Some of the systems work in conjunction with traditional septic systems to enhance the removal of nitrates or other contaminants. Others can be used to upgrade failing systems where conventional systems wouldn't fit, because they allow for a smaller leach field.

DEP has worked to ensure a smooth transition to the new rules over the past several months, training more than 1,000 individuals to conduct septic system inspections. In addition, more than 3000 registered professional engineers, registered sanitarians and certified health officers are automatically qualified to perform inspections without further training.

Commonly asked questions and answers about Title 5 regulations

Q. When do the new rules go into effect?

A. The section of the rules dealing with approval of alternative technologies went into effect on Nov. 10, 1994. All other provisions will take effect March 31, 1995, except for those dealing with soil evaluators which will become effective July 1, 1995.

Q. Who regulates cesspools and septic systems?

A. Local boards of health and health agents are the primary regulatory authorities. However, DEP will be involved in a limited number of approvals (for instance, alternative technologies or shared systems), some variance requests, and appeals. In addition, DEP is responsible for overseeing the performance of the local authorities, as well as providing those bodies with training and technical assistance.

Q. What is the difference between a cesspool and a septic system?

A. A cesspool generally consists of a pipe running from the house emptying into a single component pit. This arrangement does not allow proper detention of solids or proper distribution of effluent. As a result, effluents overload the capacity of the soil to remove harmful bacteria and viruses, to remove phosphorous and to convert ammonia. A septic system is made up of three components: a septic tank, where solids can settle and both the solids and effluents begin to degrade; a distribution box, which prevents effluent from overloading the soil; and a soil absorption system, which further treats the effluent by removing harmful bacteria, viruses, phosphorous, and nitrogen.

Q. Do the new rules require every cesspool to be replaced?

A. No. Generally, only those cesspools that exhibit signs of hydraulic failure, are located extremely close to water resources, or are determined by the board of health to be a public health threat, will have to be upgraded.

Q. Do the new rules require my system to be inspected?

A. The new rules require that your system be inspected only at time of transfer (sale), change of use which results in an increased sewage flow, or increase in the number of bedrooms.

Commonly asked questions and answers about Title 5 regulations

Q. What constitutes a system inspection and who conducts it?

A. All registered civil, sanitary and environmental engineers, registered sanitarians and certified health officers, numbering a total of about 3,000 people statewide, are automatically qualified as inspectors. In addition, DEP is conducting inspector training and expects to have certified more than 1,000 additional people to be system inspectors by the time the new regulations take effect March 31. Additional training will continue beyond that date. A list of certified system inspectors is available from DEP's Division of Water Pollution Control by calling (617) 292-5886.

It is estimated that an average of fewer than 2,000 home sales per month will be subject to the inspection requirements statewide.

The extent of an individual inspection will depend upon a number of variables, including the type of system (i.e. cesspool vs. septic system), age of the system, availability of as-built drawings, and local soil conditions. Cesspools, septic tanks and distribution boxes will have to be uncovered and examined, but DEP does not expect widespread excavation to be needed in most cases.

Q. How do I have my system inspected if I'm selling the house in the middle of the winter?

A. The regulations allow an inspection to be conducted anytime in the nine months before the sale, or six months after the sale if the transaction occurs during adverse weather conditions.

Q. What is maximum feasible compliance?

A. The concept of maximum feasible compliance (MFC) is "do the best you can with what you've got." That is, where possible, systems must be constructed or upgraded in full compliance with the rules. But if this is not possible, the local board of health will be authorized on a case-by-case basis, to approve construction which brings the system as close to full compliance as possible. No DEP review would be needed except in cases where the system is unable to meet basic requirements for groundwater separation or drinking water supply setbacks, or construction of a basic three-part system.

Q. What happens if I can't meet those basic requirements?

A. If you can't meet the basic requirements for setbacks from water resources or construction of a three-part system, you'll have to apply to the local board of health and to DEP for a variance. The new rules provide a number of options. For example, the use of alternative technologies which allow smaller leaching areas or less separation from groundwater may be a solution. A group of residents may also install a shared system. Other options may also be available and will be considered on a case-by-case basis.

Q. What alternative technologies are available?

A. Under the new regulations, recirculating sand filters are approved for general use and composting/humus toilets are approved for use in upgrade situations. In addition, the new code establishes a comprehensive and systematic approach to analyzing other alternative technologies, based on the level of scientific information available. By March 31, 1995, DEP will have certified several additional technologies for upgrades as well as new construction.

Q. If I own a vacant lot, can I build on it under the new regulations?

A. If an individual lot were buildable under the 1978 rules but could not fully comply with the new rules, you can build up to a three-bedroom house as long as the application is filed by March 31, 2000, and the system is built by 2003. A larger house may be allowed if a higher level of treatment (e.g. sand filter) is provided.

Q. What happens to existing local rules when the new state regulations take effect?

A. Local rules are adopted under independent legal authority. Existing local rules that conflict with or are less stringent than the new code will no longer be in effect. Local rules which are more stringent than the new code will remain in effect, but boards of health are urged to review them and determine whether they are still appropriate.

Q. What kind of financial assistance is available to help homeowners repair or upgrade their systems?

A. The federal Farmers Home Administration (FHA), the Massachusetts Housing Finance Agency (MHFA) and some private lending institutions offer financing to qualified individuals. For information regarding the federal programs contact your local FHA county office as listed in the phone directory or write:

Farmers Home Administration
U.S. Department of Agriculture

Summary of major revisions to Clean Water Rules (Title 5)

Innovative/alternative systems

1978 Code: specific DEP approval of every alternative on a lot-by-lot basis, no defined process

Revised code: New, streamlined system leading to general approval of alternatives takes effect Nov. 10, 1994. Recirculating sand filters and humus/composting toilets certified as of that date. DEP to certify additional alternatives before April 1995, and to publish information about approved and pending alternatives.

Inspection of existing systems

1978 Code: does not address inspections, but requires pumping annually. This provision widely ignored.

Revised code: requires inspections only at time of property transfer, change of use, or expansion. Sets performance standard for pumping, suggests pumping at least every three years. Provides guidelines for how inspections should be done.

Definition of failed system

1978 Code: a system suffering breakout or backup, or any system deemed to be posing a public health threat

Revised code: systems exhibiting obvious hydraulic failures (breakout or backup); systems located within Zone I of public water supply wells, within 100 feet of public water supply reservoirs or their tributaries, or within 50 feet of surface water bodies; cesspools without at least a half-day capacity; systems found to be a specific health or environmental threat

Standard of upgrade

1978 Code: requires substandard systems to be upgraded to meet the full requirements of the code, or to get a variance from both the board of health and DEP.

Revised code: where no expansion or change of use is proposed, the standard, with local board of health approval, is maximum feasible upgrade. No DEP review would be needed unless the system could not meet requirements for groundwater separation or drinking water supply setbacks, or construction of a basic 3-part system.

Environmentally sensitive areas

A. Setbacks

1978 Code: 100 foot required setback from water supply reservoirs and their tributaries, 50 feet from other surface waters.

Revised code: required setbacks for new construction are 400 feet from reservoirs, 200 feet from their tributaries, 100 feet from wetlands bordering these tributaries, 100 feet from vernal pools already certified at time of application (50 feet if system is downgradient from pool), and 50 feet from other surface waters

B. Nitrate loading (excessive discharge of nutrients)

1978 Code: does not address this issue.

Revised code: within recharge areas of public wells, or where private wells and septic systems are both used, new residential development using conventional septic systems would require an acre of land for a four-bedroom home. A larger home or a smaller lot would be allowed if an alternative system that removes nitrate is used, or on the basis of a plan that averages nitrate loadings across a project or community. Nitrate loadings from commercial activities are similarly limited in public well recharge areas. DEP is to study nitrate loadings from commercial facilities, before extending the limitations to private well areas.

Grandfathering existing lots

1978 Code: not addressed.

Revised code: if an individual lot were buildable under the 1978 code, but could not fully comply with the new rules, the same flow, up to a three-bedroom house, would be allowed if the disposal system application is filed within five years and the system built within eight years. A larger house may be allowed with a higher level of treatment.

Large systems

(10,000 15,000 gallons per day)

1978 Code: local board of health approves conventional systems up to 15,000 gallons per day.

Revised code: a) recirculating sand filter or equivalent alternative systems required for new systems over 2,000 gpd that are located in well recharge areas;

b) treatment plant required for new systems or expansions over 10,000 gpd;

c) existing systems over 10,000 gpd must be inspected within two years. Those located within Zone IIs of public wells, within 400 feet of reservoirs or 200 feet of their tributaries, must upgrade to treatment plant within 5-7 years unless the owner demonstrates that drinking water standards are being met.

Inspectors available

DEP has conducted extensive training sessions for health boards, consultants, realtors, homebuilders and others about the new requirements.

Lists of approved inspectors are being updated weekly and distributed to all boards of health and other interested parties. Copies of the list are available by calling DEP's Division of Water Pollution Control at (617) 292-5886.

If The Road Is A Refrigerator, This Is The Magnet.

Let's cut past the technology behind the 90 Quattro and state it simply: Quattro makes you feel like you're glued to the road. You feel confident on wet curves or patches of ice or gravel. It's all-wheel drive with a "brain" which imitates the relationship between a refrigerator and a magnet. Neither BMW nor Mercedes has Quattro. Or front-wheel drive. Or another feature that sticks. A 3-year or 50,000-mile no-charge scheduled maintenance plan whether you lease or buy. Which could save you enough money to buy a major home appliance or two.

The New 90 Quattro. Lease from $399 per month $999 down***

*Audi 90 Quattro: $999.00 down payment, $399.00 1st month's rent, $400.00 refundable security deposit and $450.00 acquisition fee due at lease inception. 36-month closed-end lease. Rate based on $29,110 MSRP of '90 Quattro sedan incl. optional trim - power windows & destination chg. Monthly payments total $14,364. Option to purchase at lease end for $14,676 (example shown). At lease end, lessee responsible for $0.10/mile over 30,000 miles, for damage and excess wear, and for a $250.00 deposit fee.
